Defendant in "Cocktail" Case Loses Life as Car Plunges at Embarcadero

Returning from Bohemian Club "Low Jinks," Man Runs Machine in Water

COLONEL WILLIAMS

(By United Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Col. Alexander S. Williams, U. S. marine corps officer, defendant in the famous "cocktail case," was drowned early today when his automobile plunged into San Francisco Bay from the Embarcadero.

His body, recovered after several hours' search, was identified by papers in the pockets. He was lodged behind the wheel of his car, which plunged into 30 feet of water. Williams left home last night to attend a dinner, telling his wife he would be late in returning.

Mrs. Williams identified the body at the morgue.

Sailor Sees Plunge
Only one man, Frank Moore, a sailor on the steamship Admiral Peary, witnessed the fatal plunge and he was unable to explain the accident. He said the car, traveling at a high rate of speed along the bay side of the Embarcadero, suddenly swerved, bounced up on to the sidewalk and shot out into the water.

Several tugs and the police patrol boat responded to the call and worked to raise the machine, a couple.

The car slipped back into the water twice, after being raised to the surface, and it was only after several hours' work that it was finally recovered.

Identification of the machine as belonging to Colonel Williams was possible through the license number, and Mrs. Williams was summoned to the morgue, where she identified the occupant as her husband.

Mrs. Williams said her husband left home early last evening, saying he was going to a dinner at the Bohemian club.

"I don't know why he should have been down by the Embarcadero, unless it was because we are comparatively strangers here and he did not know his way."

"My husband was invited to dinner by persons I did not know, and he probably became confused in driving home and lost his direction, going by the bay."

Police reported there was no trace of liquor in the machine.

Williams, it was revealed today, was a guest of George J. Hatfield, U. S. district attorney, at the club. Once during the evening, the colonel telephoned his wife and told her he was "having a wonderful time."

Court-Martialed in San Diego
Colonel Williams came into national prominence last March, in San Diego, when he was court-martialed on charges of intoxication, referred by Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, commander of the marine corps station there.

The board found Colonel Williams guilty and he lost numbers in rank. Later he was transferred to San Francisco and given charge of the survey of the western division and western recruiting.

Adm. Thomas Washington, commander of the 13th naval district, ordered a naval board of inquiry investigation, which was to start with viewing the body at the morgue, followed by a visit to the scene of the tragedy.

The board expected to question other guests at the Bohemian club party, in an effort to determine the cause of Colonel Williams' fast ride to death.

Annual "Low Jinks"
The party which Williams attended, previous to his fatal ride, was the annual "low jinks" of the LEGHORN, Italy, Oct. 1.—Officially shrouded in secrecy, but productive of fulsome reports, the conversations of Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain, of England, on the latter's yacht, off the Italian coast, are believed to have concerned much of international importance.

The question of colonies, in which Mussolini has exhibited great interest in the past, is said to have been discussed at some length when the premier

Use Tear Gas To Quell Man At Hanging

(By United Press)
BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 1.—Subdued by tear gas, after he became violent and attacked his jailers, Tony Vetter was hanged today for the murder of Antone Savero. Vetter attacked Deputy Sheriff D. O. Robinson, who entered his cell to prepare him for the death march to the scaffold. With a knife fashioned from an iron spoon and a length of iron pipe, the condemned man drove the deputy from the cell.

Robinson summoned aid and drums of tear gas were brought. The spray was directed into the cell until Vetter fell to the floor in agony.

Then his arms and legs were trussed and he was carried to the scaffold, where the hanging was carried out.

Vetter was pronounced dead in six minutes.

NEVADA HONORS 2 DEAD CONVICTS

CARSON CITY, Nev., Oct. 1.—State buildings and all business houses were closed today for the double burial of George Brown and J. E. Mitchell, state prisoners, who were burned to death Tuesday, while battling the forest fire that imperiled the capital city.

In their coffins were their pardons, dated Monday, the day before they were killed. The pardons were issued early today by Gov. J. C. Scruggs, as the state's greatest show of respect to two convicts who discharged their debt to society with their lives.

Arthur Sumner, fire guard, and Bryant Whitmore, state prison guard, who were severely burned early this week, were reported recovering at Reno. They are in special hospital beds which keep air temperature of 100 degrees on their burned bodies.

Snow and rain have extinguished the fires, except in one point, six miles west of this city.

BANKER DIES IN FACE OF ARREST

MERCED, Calif., Oct. 1.—Funeral arrangements were being made here today for J. B. Hart, president of the Farmers' and Merchants' National bank and former city treasurer, who died while a U. S. marshal was waiting in his home to arrest him on charges of violating national banking laws.

The bank closed its doors last week and an audit is alleged to have revealed a shortage of approximately $30,000 in city funds. The warrant was sworn out by a bank examiner here late yesterday and the banker died a short time after U. S. Marshal S. J. Shannon arrived at his home to serve the paper.

Death was attributed to a chronic disease and a nervous breakdown. Hart was a native son of Salem, Ore., and is survived by a widow and two sons.

FIRE ON STEAMER IS UNDER CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Fire aboard the steamer New Britain, off Savannah, Ga., is under control and she no longer needs an escort, the navy department was advised today by the transport Chaumont.

The Chaumont got in touch with the burning ship, racing for port during the night and, ascertaining she needed no aid, proceeded on her way to Guantanamo.

The New Britain is a 5174-ton freighter, owned by the Great Northwestern Shipping corporation. On this trip, she was bound for San Diego from Philadelphia under charter to the Williams Steamship line.

PASTOR SEEN IN HOSTELRY BY DOORMAN

Man Whom Mrs. McPherson Baptized Testified For Prosecution at Hearing

SHE SMILED AT HIM

Walked Quickly In, Went Up Elevator and Stayed For Half Hour, He Says

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—Attempting to further connect Kenneth G. Ormiston with the disappearance of Aimee Semple McPherson, the state called Thomas Melville, doorman of the Clark hotel, to the witness stand today at the evangelist's preliminary examination on conspiracy charges.

Melville's testimony was introduced to corroborate evidence given yesterday by Walter B. Lambert, haberdasher, who testified he saw Mrs. McPherson and Ormiston at the entrance of the hotel, about 10 o'clock in the morning of May 18. Melville, who was baptized by Mrs. McPherson, at Angelus temple, testified he saw Mrs. McPherson enter the hotel at 10 a. m., on the morning of May 18, the day she disappeared, and after taking the elevator upstairs, saw her emerge 30 minutes later.

Recognized Her Instantly
Having seen the evangelist on numerous occasions, Melville said he recognized her instantly when she entered the lobby and further identified her through a portfolio she was carrying which had the name, "Aimee Semple McPherson," stenciled on it in gold letters.

"She walked quickly in," said the witness, "and looked neither to the right or left. She went directly to the middle elevator and went up past the mezzanine floor."

"About half an hour later, she came down and I was standing directly in front of her. Our eyes met and she sort of smiled at me, but I never having met her formally, and not certain that she knew me, glanced away and a second later gazed back at her and she was still looking at me. She proceeded out of the hotel."

Reads of Disappearance
"That night, I read an account of her disappearance or supposed drowning at Ocean Park, and having had an indelible impression of my chance meeting with her that morning, I went to Angelus temple to tell 'mother' Kennedy and the others out there of my information. I talked to a temple worker about it, but I don't know who it was."

Melville testified he was a member of Mrs. McPherson's congregation and had been baptized by the woman preacher.

He clung to his testimony under a fire of cross-examination from W. J. Gilbert, counsel for the evangelist.

District Attorney Asa Keyes announced today that specimens of Ormiston's handwriting would be compared with that on hotel registers and in telegrams and letters from the radio man to aid in tracing his movements during the period of Mrs. McPherson's disappearance.

Ormiston's handwriting will be compared with that in the names "Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gibson," at the Andrews hotel, San Luis Obispo, and the name "Kenneth Gladstone," on the register of an Oakland hotel, Keyes said.

Will Compare With Telegram
It will also be compared with the handwriting on the famous "Aimee safe" telegram, received by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, co-defendant and mother of the evangelist, during her daughter's disappearance. This telegram, sent from Oakland, said: "Aimee O. K. Don't worry. Dr. Murten."

The district attorney also announced that he had discovered evidence that Mrs. McPherson had purchased a pair of shell-rimmed goggles with dark lenses about 12 months ago from a local jeweler.

The woman seen in the company of the Angelus temple radio man, during Mrs. McPherson's disappearance were goggles.

Followers of Mrs. McPherson gathered in special prayer at Angelus temple today and called on the Lord to "confound" and "put to confusion" the witnesses who are testifying against the evangelist. The mass praying was at the request of Mrs. McPherson.

Developments at Hearing
Outstanding developments at yesterday's session of the hearing were as follows:

1. Mrs. McPherson and a man said to resemble Ormiston were identified by a haberdasher as the couple seen entering a downtown hotel on the morning of the evangelist's disappearance.

2. The manager of a hotel at San Luis Obispo testified that Ormiston

BRITAIN AGREES TO HELP U. S. CHECK SMUGGLING OF RUM FROM BAHAMA ISLES

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Great Britain has agreed to co-operate with the U. S. prohibition authorities in checking rum running from the Bahama islands and other British ports. In announcing that the British government had accepted "the suggestions made at the recent London conference for administrative co-operation for prevention of illicit liquor trade," state department officials emphasized that the new agreement is not a treaty.

No text was made public. It is understood that the British government has voluntarily relaxed some of its port regulations to facilitate speedy entry of American rum chasers, and that it will exercise more care in granting ship papers to suspicious craft. But Britain is believed to have retained the right to cancel the new regulations if and when she desires.

The new "suggestions" became effective September 29, it was announced today. They are supplementary regulations, in addition to the British-American liquor treaty, and, in view of the administration, do not require ratification by the senate.

There was some suggestion today that the senate may insist upon seeing the text of the new agreement, though a similar supplement agreement with Canada a year ago was not questioned.

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, dry czar, headed the American delegation to the special London conference, which drew up the agreement on July 27.

GOFF TESTIFIES AT FRAUD TRIAL

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Senator Guy V. Goff, Republican, West Virginia, testified in the Harry M. Daugherty-Thomas W. Miller conspiracy trial today that it was he who passed through the attorney general's office the claims under which $7,000,000 American Metal company assets were paid by the alien property custodian to German and Swiss interests, represented by Richard Merton, of Frankfurt, Germany.

Goff, who is 58, was a dignified figure on the stand. His entire biography was gone into deeply.

His father was secretary of the navy under President Hayes and he himself was assistant U. S. attorney general under the Harding administration.

MAN LEAPS SIX STORIES TO DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—J. W. Frazer, Canadian war veteran, of Long Beach, committed suicide today by leaping from the sixth floor of the Transportation building here.

He left a note stating he could stand the pain in his head no longer, and was going to "end it all."

The death leap was made from the Red Cross room where he had been receiving treatments. He seemed greatly depressed over his physical condition, nurses said.

After handing his farewell note to Mrs. Bertha Chaska, Frazer ran to the window, where he stood on a chair, and said, "Here I go," as he jumped to the pavement below.

Florida Officials Bitterly Scored

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Florida officials "from the governor down," and real estate operators were severely criticized today by John Bar-Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, for minimizing the loss in the hurricane of September 18, and thus handicapping relief work. "The poor people who suffered are regarded as of less consequence than the hotel and tourist business of Florida," Judge Payne said, in a message to S. Pinckney, chairman of the Richmond, Va., chapter of the Red Cross.

FARMERS FLEE TO HIGHER LANDS AS FLOODS THREATEN

(By United Press)
FORT SMITH, Ark., Oct. 1.—With rivers and streams threatening a heavy flood, hundreds of farmers in the Arkansas and Poteau river bottoms are fleeing to higher lands.

The Arkansas and Poteau rivers which meet here, have been swollen to overflowing by the unprecedented rainfall in the lowlands, which yet continued unabated. Warnings were sent out saying the flood was inevitable.

The flood will confine itself to the territory from the mouth of the Neosho river, near Fort Gibson, Okla., about 150 miles west to a point from the stream 55 miles east of Fort Smith, weather bureau officials declare.

During the last three days, the average of rainfall has been five inches. Corn and cotton crops are threatened.

Collision Between Espee Limited and Motor Car Occurs in Dixon Yards

BODIES ARE CRUSHED

Accident Is Thought Due To Failure of Driver to Stop 50 Feet From Rails

(By United Press)
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Southern Pacific Overland Limited No. 1 tore down upon an Oakland-Sacramento stage today at Dixon, 21 miles out of Sacramento, killing 11 of its 12 passengers outright, according to Southern Pacific advices.

The stage driver was fatally injured and died shortly afterward, bringing the dead to twelve.

The twelfth passenger was seriously injured and may die.

While the Southern Pacific maintained its report of 12 dead, the Dixon agent of the California Transit company reported to the United Press that the tragedy toll was only six dead, and four injured.

The stage driver was not among those dead, the Dixon agent said.

The collision occurred at the west end of the Southern Pacific railroad yards, in Dixon. The train, Oakland-bound, was gathering speed for the outward journey and crashed into the bus with such force that the machine was totally demolished.

Reports Are Conflicting
In the panic that resulted, conflicting reports of the number of dead were given.

The first report placed the dead at eight. Later the number was reduced to six, then to four.

But reports, regarded by the Southern Pacific as authentic, placed the toll at 12.

The accident is believed due to the failure of E. R. Barstage driver, to stop 50 feet from the tracks, as required by law.

The gates were just being lowered. A small automobile had speeded beneath the first gate and was in the center of the tracks ahead of the approaching train. The gate keeper raised the gates slightly to allow the machine to escape.

In this short period, the stage, approaching from the opposite direction, continued to the tracks and cleared the first gate.

It was directly across the tracks when the train bore down upon it.

The stage was operated by the California Transit company and was enroute to Sacramento, out of Oakland. Its passengers were believed to be mostly residents of Oakland, San Francisco and Vallejo.

None had been identified, except the stage driver, when last reports were received at Southern Pacific offices.

No report of the accident has been received at head offices of the California Transit company in Oakland.

Train Passengers in Panic
The collision caused panic among passengers of the train, many of whom fainted at the sight of the mangled dead and dying persons beneath the demolished truck.

In the belief that some were not yet dead, ambulances were dispatched from Woodland and Sacramento.

The injured passenger was a man believed to be named Speer, living either in Sacramento or Vallejo.

The train crew consisted of W. Nelson, engineer; W. J. Gellick, fireman; H. E. Drinkwater, and A. Smith, brakeman, and F. P. Selvy, conductor.

The bodies of the dead were all removed to an impromptu morgue in Dixon, where the Southern Pacific station master led attempts at identification.

AIR MAIL PLANE IS FORCED DOWN

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Oct. 1.—The Pacific Air transport mail plane, which left Portland this morning, crashed near Medford, with a load of mail, came down at Powers, shortly after 9 a. m., according to information received here.

He made a landing without damage to the plane and, after getting his bearings, attempted to leave again on his route, but at 10:30 had been unable to get his motor started.

WORDS 'OR' AND 'AND' HOLD UP GUN CLUB CASE

Dispute between learned lawyers concerning whether a word in a criminal complaint filed against the Blue Wing Shooting club should be "and" or "or" yesterday held up the club's trial on a charge of wasting water until next Tuesday. At that time the learned lawyers each will attempt to convince Justice Andrew H. Wilson that the complaint should read "and" or "or."

If it should read "or," the prosecution will consider it has won a victory and that its task of proving the case against the shooting club will be much simplified. If the word must be "and," the defense will celebrate a victory and rest secure in the knowledge that its side of the battle is already half won.

Objects to Form
This profound legal question arose late yesterday, while Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wettlin, handling the prosecution, was examining jurors, after Defense Counsel L. A. West had completed his examination of the venire. West objected to Wettlin's form of query, when the prosecutor asked the jurors whether they would convict the shooting club if they found the law to be that "unnecessary flow" of water is an offense, regardless of whether the water is used for a beneficial purpose and the facts to be that the shooting

1 More Day to Register For Election

One more day in which to register for the November election.

That word went out today from the office of County Clerk J. M. Backs to the voters of Orange county who have so far failed to protect their franchise as citizens.

All voters who wish to participate in the balloting November 2 must, register on or before Saturday, October 2, 30 days before election. The same law applies to transfer of registration, where a voter has moved from one precinct to another since registering.

With the registration books scheduled to close tomorrow, Backs and his staff of registrars are receiving the eleventh hour rush of business. Backs expects the county registration to reach 45,000. It was 40,509 for the August primary election.

The complaint filed against the shooting club charges, among other things, that it permitted unnecessary flow "and" waste of water. The law defines waste and exempts any beneficial use of the water from being classed as waste.

In his query, Wettlin had not referred to waste of water, but stressed the unnecessary flow angle, upon which the prosecution is said to be mainly depending for its case. The state, it is said, will contend that, regardless of whether the gun club used its artesian water for a beneficial purpose, it used an unnecessary amount and therefore violated the law.

Wording Is Questioned
Attorney West, in making his objection to Wettlin's question, declared that the two items of "unnecessary flow" and "waste" must be tied together in prosecution of the case and in Wettlin's questions to the jurors. A question arose regarding the wording of the complaint, which charges "unnecessary flow and waste," whereas the statute covering the case reads "unnecessary flow or waste."

Wettlin argued that it was a fundamental of criminal pleadings, as distinguished from civil pleadings, to include every one of a series of acts constituting an offense in a complaint and that it then is only necessary to prove any one of them to get a conviction. He held that the law reads unnecessary flow "or" waste, because the statute always phrases offenses in disjunctive form, whereas a complaint, charging an offense, must be phrased in conjunctive form, by using the word "and" instead of "or."

When the court remained unconvinced on the point, Wettlin asked for time in which to submit authorities to the court. Accordingly the trial was adjourned until Tuesday, at 9 a. m. At that time, further argument on the question is scheduled, before further proceedings with the selection of a jury.

The club guest book showed the following entry:
"September 30, 1926. Colonel Alexander Williams, guest of George J. Hatfield."
"Colonel Williams came to my office yesterday afternoon," Attorney Hatfield told newspapermen, when questioned at his office this morning. "I had never met him before. He presented a letter of introduction from a mutual friend and I gave him a guest card at the club."

"I introduced him to several members," Bennett said. "One made a joking reference to the San Diego affair and I could see he hurt Colonel Williams and I regretted what I had said."

The officer appeared "melancholy and despondent," Bennett said. Hatfield said he attended the club dinner, but only saw Colonel Williams a few times during the evening.

"OH, MY! OH, MY!" BUTLER'S COMMENT
SAN DIEGO, Oct. 1.—"Oh, My! Oh, My!" gasped Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler, commander of the marine base here, when informed today of the tragic death of Col. Alexander Williams, by drowning, at San Francisco, this morning.

General Butler asked for the message to be repeated to him several times over the phone. "Perfectly terrible," he continued. "Perfectly awful."

The two officers had known each other more than 20 years, and often served on the same foreign details.

Fifteen members of the committee attended the meeting, which was held in the Garden Grove hotel, with Dr. R. A. Cushman, chairman of the central committee, presiding.

Co-operative planning for success of the party standard bearers at the November election, with several suggestions for precinct organization, followed speeches of indorsement for the nominees.

The Young Men's Republican club and its work were enthusiastically praised by the speakers and drew an indorsement from the committee, which tendered its support and co-operation in the form of a resolution.

Plans were made for holding a joint meeting with the Young Men's Republican club October 14, at 6:30 p. m. The meeting of the two organizations will be held in McFarland's cafe, Fullerton.

Arrangements will be made for a program of speakers from outside the county for that occasion, according to E. R. Abbey, secretary of the central committee.

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by the full, bloated feeling after eating is a most certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few tablets of Bisulphated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind, and bloated feeling out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisulphated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no thought of indigestion.—Adv.

Drab September Not Lacking for Blushing Brides

Drab September, heretofore unsuspected of romantic leanings, today stepped forward, blushing, and took her seat beside June, the month of brides.

A total of 450 marriage licenses were issued in Orange county during the month just closed, it was shown by records of County Clerk J. M. Backs.

That exceeds the record, not only for September, but for any month in the year, June excepted. June still retains its laurels as the champion matrimonial month, but September has crowded May and July out of the running for second place.

TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

A mother and her son were seriously hurt and a Hollywood hotel owner is in the Orange county jail as the result of an automobile accident, at 9 o'clock last night, just south of the Orange county line.

Mrs. Mary Switzer, 60, mother of Joseph F. Switzer, 21, 2572 B street, San Diego, is in San Juan Capistrano, suffering from severe head injuries, which may cause her death. The son also is reported to be in a serious condition, following the collision of his machine with a car said to have been operated by Raymond F. George, 23, 7887 Hillside avenue, Hollywood.

Physicians in San Juan Capistrano said today that the woman's condition was critical and that she may die.

Soon after the accident George was arrested by State Traffic Officers W. H. Randol and R. M. Beale, of Modesto county, who were returning to their county from San Diego after a vacation. He was brought to Capistrano, where he was turned over to deputy sheriffs, who brought the man to jail.

George is booked in the county jail at the present time on a drunk charge. Dan Adams, deputy sheriff, said today that San Diego officers had requested that George be held for them. They will be here today to take the man to San Diego, he said.

Details of the accident could not be learned by the sheriff's office this morning.

George is alleged to have stated that he was not the driver of the machine which collided with the Switzer car.

Mrs. Switzer and her son were taken to Capistrano last night in a bus, which arrived at the scene of the accident soon after the crash.

SCHOOL SOUGHT

Recommendations looking toward legislation that would authorize the establishment and operation of county 24-hour school for the care and instruction of juvenile delinquents were adopted at the regular monthly meeting of the Orange county juvenile home committee, held last night in the county detention home.

J. A. Cranston, chairman of the committee, presided over the meeting, which was attended by all members of the committee except Mrs. W. B. Tedford, who was unable to be present. Others taking part in the proceedings were Judge Homer G. Ames, of the superior court, in charge of the juvenile division; L. A. Warren, chief probation officer, and Mrs.
Nora Allen, deputy probation officer.

Bill Voted by Governor
It was brought out in discussion preceding the recommendations regarding the establishment of a 24-hour county school, that a bill to that end had passed in the state legislature and afterward revoted by Gov. Friend W. Richardson.

The employment of an additional probation officer, to act as assistant to Chief Probation Officer Warren, was recommended by the committee. Discussion revealed that the probation officer, who also is required to handle all adult cases, finds it impossible to give necessary time and attention to juvenile cases. It was suggested that if the employment of an additional assistant eventually is authorized, this official be required to devote his entire time to juveniles. Inquiries disclosed that no definite action can be had on this recommendation until it has been made a part of the recommendations of the county grand jury, whence it would go to Sacramento for necessary legislation. Such procedure is made necessary because of the fact that all county positions are regulated by legislative enactments.

Warren Makes Report
Warren submitted an extensive report of the activities of his office, giving the number of juvenile cases handled by his office for the last two months. He called attention to the fact that, whenever possible, efforts are being made to avoid court action in dealing with young delinquents.

Judge Ames explained the various duties of the juvenile home committee, as outlined in the political code.

The workings of the home were explained by A. H. Dawson, superintendent, and Mrs. Anna Garlock, teacher at the institution.

EDUCATION LIFELONG PROCESS, SAYS PRESIDENT OF WHITTIER COLLEGE IN Y. M. C. A. ADDRESS

"Education is not a matter of eight years, nor 12 years, nor 20 years. It is a lifelong process and should never end until life ends. The basis of success is straight thinking. We like to find excuses for doing things. We give reasons for our actions that are not true and, having made ourselves liars, we have to live up to our lies. Education of a practical sort helps a man to think straight, to be honest with himself, to get at the honest causes for decisions, and straight, honest, thinking is the foundation of success."

"Education should help us to lay aside the habits of childhood, a busy man."

The Toastmasters' club was represented by Ridley C. Smith, who told of the work of this organization and related some of the benefits to the man who has the confidence in his own powers to convince people.

The program closed with the showing of two reels of motion pictures, one being a Santa Ana film, made several years ago, and the other a scenic film from Laguna Beach, provided through the courtesy of J. S. Thurston, of the artists' colony.

J. P. Baumgartner stated that there were 200 men and women enrolled in the educational classes of the Santa Ana Y during the last year and said that it is the hope of his committee to have at least that many in the classes this season. The educational clubs last year had a membership of about 80 men and they are well on the way at this time to a larger number. Most of the classes are open for women as well as men and are provided for the benefit of the entire community. The regular classes for the fall season will be organized next week, beginning with the class in public speaking, which will hold an open meeting at 7:30 Monday night.

The address of Dr. Dexter was the feature of the evening. Speaking on "Practical Education," the Whittier educator said that character is developed by solving problems. The training, which comes through education, he emphasized, helps us to meet our problems and solve them and to solve them in the right way.

Education Develops Temperament
The right kind of education develops temperament," he continued, "trains instincts and puts skill into all our work. The end of education is to produce a properly organized nervous system, functioning properly and showing itself in personality. Education is a matter of friendship, shared experience, in which the experienced one communicates to the inexperienced one of the secrets of trade, profession or philosophy."

"The great thing about the Y. M. C. A. is its balanced, practical program of education. It is concerned with a man's health. It helps him to train his physical being. It looks after his moral education and helps him to learn how to meet the moral issues of life squarely and honestly. It stirs his mind and stimulates him to intellectual development. Most of all, it promotes friendship and the sharing of experience between practical men."

The dinner hour was enlivened by selections by the men's chorus of the Y. M. C. A. Activities of Y Told
The varied activities of the Y. M. C. A. were reflected in a series of short talks by men who spoke from their own relations to the Y program. Carson Smith, member of the committee on boys' work, explained the character training policy of the association, as it applies to boys. C. E. Hawk, president of the men's chorus, gave what he called an apology for the chorus, but it was generally agreed that no apology was required for an organization so competent as it had shown itself to be. Hawk explained the plan of the chorus, which is to give men who like to sing an opportunity to get together for recreation, enjoyment and education. He extended the invitation to other men to join the chorus in this work, explaining that there now are 18 members in the group and twice that number could well be used.

Justice and Mrs. Kenneth E. Morrison, 524 Linwood avenue, have returned from a three week motor trip, which took them into Yosemite valley and to a number of California lakes. They covered approximately 2500 miles on the trip.

Justice and Mrs. Morrison went from here to Sacramento, where they attended the California state fair. They then proceeded to Wawona, and remained several days at Wawona lodge. Later they went into the valley of Yosemite, where they spent several days, returning by way of Tioga pass.

After crossing over Tioga, Judge and Mrs. Morrison visited at Mono lake, Silver Lake, June lake and Mammoth lakes, returning by way of Bishop.

Justice Morrison will go back on the bench tomorrow, he said, provided a case being tried in his court today is finished. Justice Andrew Wilson has been in charge of the office during Morrison's absence.

Successful Surprise is Carried Out

was the victim of a well-planned surprise, in celebration of his birthday.

For when he entered the darkened house and turned on the lights, he found a friendly group in readiness to call their greetings and birthday congratulations. Mrs. Martin had decorated their pretty home at 327 Normandy Place, with quantities of marigolds which cast their radiance on the scene. Vivid dahlias too were used in the decorative effect.

Progressive rook was introduced and Mrs. L. Crasher and A. V. Napier, scorin, high, proudly displayed their two-card genuine Woolworth diamond ring prizes while Mrs. Charles Johnson won a paper doll penic and James O'Brien a jumping jack, as consolation gifts.

Card tables were arranged with pretty linens for serving pumpkin pie and whipped cream, coffee and salted nuts in gay orange baskets. Mrs. Ross Hostetler of Costa Mesa, a sister of the host, had baked a birthday cake in his honor and this he cut for distribution among the guests. It was a toothsome and beautiful confection, its white icing covered with pink rosebuds and blue daisies. Mrs. Martin was assisted in serving by Miss Kate Richards.

Mr. Martin was presented with a handsome lounge coat by his friends who included Messrs. and Mesdames John Sexton, Charles Mason of Huntington Park, A. V. Napier, Charles L. Johnson, Paul Johnson, E. A. Cox, L. Crasher, James O'Brien, T. P. Kingsley, Dr. and Mrs. A. N. Crain, Miss Kate Richards, and little Miss Betty Martin, daughter of the home.

Very enjoyable refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Hasenyaeger. The club members will meet next time with Mrs. R. B. Kelly at her home, 520 East Walnut street, on October 28.

Friends Assemble For Surprise Shower on Bride-Elect

Miss Helena Lieberman, soon to become the bride of J. Ogden Markel.

Seldom are surprises so successful as the one engineered by the hostess, but Miss Lieberman, taking her sewing to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lykke on South Flower street, saw no reason to suspect party plans on the part of her hostess. But shortly after 8 o'clock, the door opened to admit the entire group of guests who had assembled at the McDonour home and descended in a body to "kidnap" the honoree and her supposed hostess.

Miss McDonour is fortunate in possessing a garden that yields unusually lovely dahlias. These, varying from rainbow tinted pompoms to great shaggy ones in glowing red, gave a charming air to her home. While the guests were absent, seeking Miss Lieberman, Mrs. Claire Cullen, sister of the hostess, arranged the card tables with smart black covers, and had everything in readiness for bridge when they returned.

Mrs. Lykke was fortunate holder of high score and received a flowered candlestick with prettily tinted candle. Miss Helen Moore was consoled for low score with a lovely georgette handkerchief, hand-painted. When the prizes were bestowed, Miss McDonour informed Miss Lieberman that she was to take guest prize, and deluged her with various shaped packages, ribbon tied. Everyone enjoyed examining the gifts, which ranged from can-openers to Pyrex bowls, and were so many in number that their recipient experienced the climax of the evening's surprises when still another article was handed her—a willow market basket from her hostess, in which was the gift of the entire guest group, an etched glass casserole in silver holder.

When Miss Lieberman promised to bake beans, scalloped potatoes and oysters and cook Maryland chicken for her friends, it turned their thoughts to the tempting tables which Miss McDonour and Mrs. Cullen had arranged. Centering the white linen was a pastel tinted rose from which towered a whip taper in one of the soft tints. Their lovely colors were repeated in the petalled nut cups holding salted almonds. Butterfly salad, avocado sandwiches, coffee and hot cocoa were followed with maraschino ice cream and rich layer cake.

Asked to enjoy the friendly evening with Miss McDonour and her sister, Mrs. Cullen, were the honoree, Miss Lieberman, her sisters, the Misses Anne and Agnes Lieberman, Mesdames Henry Eggert, Marian Knight, Cecyl Drake, Eleanor Elliott, Olive Lopez, W. H. McKay, Andrew Lykke, Ben Herrick, Troy Smith, the Misses Gertrude Linsenbard Louise Stephenson, Rheba McDow, Helen Moore, Beatrice Riley, Helen Lutz and Dorothea Pottgatter.

Ebbl Flower Show to be Big Event

The garden section of Santa Ana Ebbl society is holding its fifth flower show in Ebbl club house, Wednesday, October 13, from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m.

For the first time since its organization the section is offering awards. These will consist mainly of ribbons and there will be first, second and third prizes for each number in each section.

There will also be on sale, as is the usual custom, donated plants, bulbs and seeds, vegetables, fruit and cooked food. The tea room will afford ice cream or a cup of tea, etc., etc.

Those who do not care to enter for awards will find their flowers gladly welcomed in the general exhibit. All amateurs and professionals alike are cordially invited to participate and thus help the society in its effort to place before the community, the beauty, pleasure and possibilities of floral culture.

Men Are Included in Famous Hospitality of Ebbl Society

BELL husbands are coming into their own!

That privilege of participation in the famous vanishing parties which surely should be theirs because they are relatives-in-law of the Ebbl heirs, has been accorded them by four friendly hostesses, Mrs. Theo A. Winbiger, Mrs. J. W. McCormac, Mrs. F. P. Jayne and Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman, at a breakfast planned for their enjoyment and as a break in the stern business day.

The affair was one of yesterday's outstanding events and was held in the spacious Winbiger home where a wealth of dahlias in all varieties of color and form, attracted even the admiring gaze of the men.

Breakfast at high noon was made a most interesting event, a menu of grapefruit, poached eggs on toast, country sausages, cottage fried potatoes, hot biscuits and fig preserves, waffles, maple syrup and coffee, being served. Mrs. Ernest Winbiger was waffle chef and received the highest possible praise for the crisp, golden-brown delicacy of which unheard quantities were consumed.

It was matter of interest to on-lookers (or onlisteners, if a word may be coined) that conversation was quite as lively, as gay and as inconsequential as at a similar gathering of femininity. In fact when it was learned that a newspaper reporter was actually present, one of the first bribes as to silence on the sewing-circle nature of the conversation flow, was made by Mit Phillips, genial Sunset clubman, and one of the largest was that offered by A. J. Lasby!

Brief entertaining features were planned for the enjoyment of the guests in the short time afforded ere they returned to their various offices and places of business. Miss Ruth Oakes, accomplished harpist of the city, played "Josephine" (Nayone) as they gathered, and later, as they assembled in the drawing room, she played several beautiful numbers while Eleanor Young Elliott read Mark Twain's account of his experience with an interviewer and other numbers.

The one feminine guest given the honor of lunching with the men was Mrs. J. B. Roberts, taking the place of one guest unavoidably absent and welcomed to the merry group whose number included Messrs. F. P. Jayne, Theo Winbiger, J. W. McCormac, F. W. Wiesseman, George Stat-tuck, Arthur Lyon, W. A. Taylor, J. E. Liebig, J. G. Quick, R. J. Thompson, Mit Phillips, A. J. Lasby, Samuel Nau, Asa Vander-mast, A. N. Zerman, E. T. Mater, C. P. Boyer, O. H. Barr, Terry E. Stephenson, S. M. Davis, Adam Zaiser, George Edgar and A. J. Padgham.

Afternoon for Femininity

Four, Mrs. Winbiger, Mrs. Wiesseman, Mrs. McCormac and Mrs. Jayne, had each asked a group of friends and had planned a varied entertainment for which Miss Oakes and Mrs. Elliott remained.

Miss Oakes played at intervals throughout the afternoon, her numbers including "Annie Laurie" arranged by her former teacher, Van Vechten Rogers; "Lullaby of the Birds," Rogers; "Song Without Words," Debussy; "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms," and "Volga Boatman," transcribed for the harp by Carlos Salzedo, president of the National Harpists' association of which Miss Oakes is a member. The talented young harpist is the only one in the city, although it is anticipated that there will be others in the near future, as she proposes to open a class for both children and adults, at her home, 2430 French street.

Mrs. Elliott's readings included child numbers, "Elmer and Myrtle at the Movies" and "Cold" by Guiterman. Mrs. Jayne N. Hayes sang a group of charming numbers including "The Sun," Curran; "Carissima," from the opera "Red Feather," by Pen and "False Prophet" by Scott. Miss Elizabeth Parslow played the accompaniments in her faultless manner.

Miss Geneva Hartung delighted with an amusing monologue, "Look Pleasant Please," Holmes-Strook, and for an encore number gave "Cupid and the Bee." Miss Cleo Bowers' sweet voice was heard in "A Dream," by Bartlett; Carrie Jacobs Bond's "Just a Wearyin' for You" and "Forgotten." Miss Parslow was her accompanist also. Piano solos were offered by Miss Justina Palmer who brilliantly played number were "March of the Dwarfs," by Grieg and a lovely Gluck-Brahms gavotte.

With the conclusion of the program, guests were asked to the adjoining dining-room where at a table centered with a graceful swan bearing pastel tinted pompom dahlias, and lighted by the glow of pastel tapers in silver candelabra, Mrs. Frank Ey and Mrs. J. E. Liebig, presided behind the silver coffee and tea urns. A bevy of charming young girls, the Misses Helen Wiesseman, Katherine Robbins and Helen Slabaugh, served the daintily arranged plates and Isabel McCormac, aided in other ways. An interesting feature of the tea menu was that one of the rich and delectable cakes had been baked by Miss Wiesseman herself.

The LAIRD... a conspiracy to give you a finer overcoat

Three conspirators met in Kuppenheimer Style Studios a while ago. "What shall we do?" asked one, "to produce a finer overcoat—combining maximum Style with maximum Utility?"

"I'll find the Cloth," said the woolen man. "A weather-proofed Scotch fabric... shedding water like a slicker, holding warmth like a fur pelt, and radiating beauty as only a heather-bloom woolen can."

"I'll design the Style," said the fashion man, "creating a coat with John Barrymore distinction."

"And I'll finish the job," said the master tailor, "pooling our efforts into a finished garment; stitching serviceability with elegance, ruggedness with refinement."

So came the LAIRD... a coat to grace the sunny Avenue but to defeat the hardest wear and weather on the frontier. A courtly coat with an iron constitution.

May we have the pleasure of showing you the new Kuppenheimer LAIRDS for Fall and Winter? They're here... both in topcoat and overcoat weights and models.

STATEMENT OF EDUCATOR USED IN DRY DRIVE

A statement by David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Stanford university, is being used as the basis of official propaganda by the Women's Law Enforcement Committee of Southern California, according to Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, of Los Angeles, chairman of the committee. The following points are especially emphasized:

"The Wright act does not raise the issue of wet or dry. Its repeal would not bring back wine and beer.

"The repeal of the Wright act would make it next to impossible to meet the bootleg menace in this state. It would leave the enforcement of the law against bootleggers to the two federal courts and 75 federal enforcement officers and take away from California's 20,000 courts and officers the power to suppress bootlegging. The repeal of the Wright act would leave California wide open to the bootleggers.

"The repeal of the Wright act would take away from California the fines now going into municipal and county treasuries. . . .

"Respect for the constitution of the United States is a moral obligation that rests on every state as well as on every citizen. This is fundamental in our national life. In adopting the Wright act, in 1922, the people of California voted to perform that obligation. Repeal of the Wright act would be an act of the people repudiating and dishonoring that obligation. . . . The chief issue involved is respect for law."

Calls for speakers on the Wright act are coming in so rapidly from all southern counties, according to Mrs. Dora A. Stearns, chairman of the speakers' bureau, that they are being called upon to supply several speakers each day for the various clubs, churches and organizations wishing information on this important issue.

This bureau is prepared to supply speakers for any organization at any time and such applications should be sent in as early as possible to the Women's Law Enforcement committee, 462 Chamber of Commerce building, Los Angeles.

Army tradition is against the naming of companies I or J, because of the danger of confusing the two in written orders, and because I and J were formerly represented by the same character.

HOSPITAL, FAIR, AGRICULTURE AND ROAD REPORTS FEATURES OF ASSOCIATED CHAMBER MEET

Reports of various committees occupied the time of members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, who met last night in the Huntington Beach Women's clubhouse. The reports dealt with the Orange County fair, the Riverside fair, state fair, San Bernardino fair, Pomona fair, good roads, agriculture and with the proposed establishment of a county general hospital.

The proposed hospital plan has been discussed by the associated chambers for some time. H. A. Lake, chairman of a special committee, appointed by W. J. Carmichael, chairman of the organization, to investigate the hospital plan, gave a brief report on the matter. H. H. Hale, of Placentia, another member of the committee, read a report prepared by H. C. Head, attorney.

That the county cannot establish a general hospital for the benefit of the general public was the contention of Head's report. He declared that such a hospital must be established for charitable purposes. He declared that the board of supervisors of the county could build a new hospital, if they so desired, but that semi-charitable cases would have to be accepted. It was pointed out that many persons are unable to pay full hospital rates, but would be willing to pay parts of their bills. This would contribute to the support of such a county hospital, he said. The matter is to be taken under further consideration by the group and it is probable that a recommendation will be made at the next meeting of the chambers, to be held in Placentia.

H. A. Lake, president of the Orange County Fair board, reported on the publicity and success of the Orange County fair. J. R. Hunt, manager of the fair, reported on the automobile and industrial tents at the fair, declaring that more than one-half of the industrial space had been leased for the 1927 fair. Harry Welch, member of the fair board, explained the membership campaign, being planned by the fair board. He declared it to be the aim of the board to secure 10,000 members. George Raymer, chairman of the finance committee for the fair, reported that the fair had made a net profit this year, or $6730.

Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, county purchasing agent, outlined a plan recently adopted by the county supervisors for advertising in Los Angeles newspapers. Slabaugh also reported that Orange county representation at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce headquarters had been discontinued. Mrs. Violetta, the representative, gave a short talk.

Mrs. W. S. Kellogg, presented a lengthy report, dealing with her experiences at the Riverside, state, San Bernardino and Pomona fairs. She has words of praise for all the fairs. Mrs. Kellogg urged that every community in Orange county establish a community fair board for next year so that the utmost in co-operation might be realized in each community. Mrs. Kellogg has been appointed to the premium list committee of the state fair for next year, she reported.

J. A. Smiley reported the completion of the Laguna Beach-Newport Beach Coast highway, the completion of the Santa Ana canyon road, reported progress on the Laguna Beach to Serra road, the Santa Ana to Tustin widening project, in Santa Ana, which will widen and straighten Flower street to Chapman avenue. He also reported on improvements on the Orangeflower road.

Tom Pickrel, of Placentia, asked why the bridge over the Santa Ana river had to be torn down. T. B. Talbert, chairman of the county board of supervisors, replied to the question. Talbert explained that it was impossible to widen the bridge by adding to one side, as it would throw the bridge out of alignment. He declared that additions could not be made to both sides in a satisfactory manner and explained that the bridge is to be razed and that the easiest and cheapest way was to tear away the top of the bridge, utilize the old foundations and build a new top. Talbert also spoke on the proposed state gasoline tax and the appropriation bill, declaring both should be passed by the people to insure the completion of the state highway system.

Harold E. Wahlberg announced that the annual state fruit growers' and farmers' convention would be held November 9 and 10, in Fullerton. He reported that the annual citrus growers' extension school would be conducted in Orange county November 15 to 20. Wahlberg also spoke of his recent trip throughout the east and told of conditions in Florida. He declared that Florida citrus products did not threaten California products and declared that competition in Florida was such that grapefruit was being picked green to ship to northern markets.

Eugene Douglas announced the Armistice day parade, in Santa Ana, November 11. Harry Welch spoke briefly on Orange county harbor and A. M. Stanley spoke on the re-appointment bill.

Dinner was served by the members of the Huntington Beach Woman's club. Following the dinner a short musical program was presented under the direction of J. A. Armitage, secretary of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce. C. P. Gilmore played several saxophone solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. Chalmers. Miss Elsie Armitage sang several solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Jack Colvin. Mrs. Slabaugh also sang, accompanied by Mrs. Chalmers.

In a limited sense the term Caucasian refers to the Caucasus, on the borderland of Europe and Asia. A German anthropologist used the name in 1775 to designate the Caucasian family as a typically white race.

Y. LEADERS OF ORANGE COUNTY TO HOLD MEET

A meeting of leaders in boys' work from all over Orange county is scheduled for Friday night, in the First Presbyterian church, of Orange. The meeting will be the first training session of Y. M. C. A. leaders or the season.

About 100 men will be in attendance at dinner, to be served at 6:30. The program, following the dinner, will be conducted by R. C. Smedley, executive secretary of the Y work in Orange county.

The Rev. E. P. Cochran, of Orange and the Rev. S. F. Langford, of Fullerton, will speak. Ralph G. Cole, state secretary of boys' work in California, will conduct the training session, in which detailed instruction will be given concerning the organization and work of Y. M. C. A. groups.

The meeting will be open to men interested in work for boys, whether they are club leaders at present or not. Those who desire to attend the dinner should notify C. E. Morrow, Y. M. C. A. secretary in Orange.

Organization plans already are under way for more than 100 clubs in Orange county. The goal for the winter is 122 clubs, all organized for study and recreation under good leadership, with programs centering on Bible study and most of them definitely connected with the churches and church schools of the various communities. The clubs will have a membership of more than 1500 boys, between the ages of 10 and 18, and will require the active participation of more than 100 men as leaders.

SMALL PARKS ARE ADVOCATED BY COMMISSION

At a meeting of the city park commission, held last night in the home of the chairman, Mrs. W. L. Grubb, on Edgewood drive, the members acquainted Dr. Carol Aronovitch, city planning consultant, with ideas for the laying out of parks in Santa Ana.

The meeting also was attended by Mrs. R. A. Cushman, representing the city planning commission.

As a result of the meeting, a survey of available park sites in the city will be made and, within several weeks, a report of the commission's findings will be made to the city council. There seemed to be a feeling among those who attended the meeting that in Santa Ana a number of small neighborhood parks would be of greater benefit than one or two larger parks, because of the proximity of Santa Ana to the beaches, the mountains and Orange County park.

Mrs. Grubb emphasized that the opinions expressed were purely personal and not to be taken as the official attitude of the commission. Members of the commission attending were Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, John Knox, George Wells, Robert Northcross and Mrs. Grubb.

J. C. 'FROSH' TAKE HAY RIDE TO BEACH

Freshman students of the Santa Ana junior college went riding on a hay truck, like "Boots and Her Buddies," last night when the class held an outing at Balboa Palsades. More than 60 members of the freshman class climbed aboard the hay truck, hired for the occasion, and went to the beach. Miss Mary Jane Owens, president of the freshman class, was in charge of the program. The novel stunt was staged by the freshmen to show their class spirit, Miss Owens said. The freshmen and sophomores at the junior college have been clashing, with the general result that the freshmen have won and the hay ride was one of triumph. Leaving here yesterday evening on a truck and a trailer, the students had an exciting time traveling to the beach. Boys and girls went. At the beach, various games and contests were held.

County Fanciers Enter Pigeons In Los Angeles Fair

Orange county pigeon fanciers have about 200 birds entered at the Los Angeles county fair, being held this week in Pomona. Many prizes have been won, according to word received here by Mac O. Robbins, who has a loft of pigeons at the fair.

This year the pigeon show of the Los Angeles county fair surpasses all previous displays of the birds with the exception of the Panama exposition, in 1915.

Sixteen hundred pigeons, in every classification, are entered in the Los Angeles fair. Last year there were 1200.

Pigeons were sent to the fair by Hal McCullough, Mac O. Robbins, C. P. Cunningham and Ruby Cunningham, of Santa Ana; Dr. John Campbell, of Garden Grove, and R. G. Adams, C. C. Clark, W. G. Hoskins and Professor Marsden, of Fullerton.

If You

become fatigued upon the least exertion. If you get excited easily. If you suffer from constipation or stomach trouble. If your hands and feet are cold. If your sleep is disturbed by troubled dreams or wakefulness. If you have spells of irritability, gloominess and pessimism. If you suffer from heart palpitation, dizziness, headaches, cold sweats, or ringing in the ears. You may be sure that your nerve force is gradually being exhausted. Yet these are only a few of the signs of weak, unhealthy nerves that are steadily robbing thousands of people of their health and vitality. They are nature's warning that some part of the human machine is not receiving sufficient nerve energy to allow it to function normally.

Nerve exhaustion does not come on suddenly, but it is gradual development that deceives hundreds of apparently healthy men and women. At first your symptoms are few, yet your nerves are under pressure and slowly undermining your entire system. It is at this early stage that you should give your body proper attention for the longer you allow the abnormal condition to remain the more firmly is its hold upon your once healthy body.

Nerve exhaustion is the direct result of pressure upon the large nerve cables that carry force or energy from the brain to all parts of the body. This pressure is usually produced at a point where the cable emits from the spinal column and is brought about by a dislocation of one or more of the bony segments of the spine. For that reason we must look to the spinal column in order to find the real cause of your trouble, for if the vertebrae are not in proper alignment you cannot expect to enjoy good health. If you are not well and wish to learn the real cause of your sickness or trouble as only an X-Ray will show it, just

Laguna Resident Weds at Hemet

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 1.—Announcement has been made of the marriage of one of Laguna's best known young men, William Marion Kindell. His bride was Miss Dorothy Faulkner Pemberton, of Hemet, and the wedding took place in the valley town, the Rev. Albert Ore reading the marriage service. The bride, a daughter of Mrs. Amy H. Pemberton, was gown in white crepe de chine made with insert of rare lace and white hose and slippers. A shower bouquet of shell pink roses and sweet peas was carried. The veil, which was of tulle, was caught at each side into a rosette of sweet peas and maiden hair ferns, held in place by a bandeau of ribbon. Mrs. Pauline Frazier, sister of the bride, acted as matron of honor, wearing a gown of pink plat crepe. Clifton Pemberton, the bride's brother was best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at which refreshments, carrying out the pink color scheme, were served. The bride's cake was cut by the bride and then the bride disappeared to don her traveling gown for the journey, which was to finish in Laguna Beach. The costume was fashioned of black satin and was trimmed in blue and gold. A tight fitting hat of the same coloring was worn.

Among the wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. O. Dills and their little daughter; Mrs. A. Moreland and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Joyce, all of Laguna Beach.

ADOPTION OF ORANGE COUNTY LIONS COUNCIL SYSTEM TO BE RECOMMENDED AT CONVENTION

Officers of 30 Lions clubs, located south of the Tehachapi, present yesterday afternoon at a meeting here of the officers' association of group two, of the Fourth district of Lions International, voted to recommend to the district convention in Riverside next May, adoption of the Orange county play of organizing county councils in each county in the district.

The clubs of Orange county have led the way in institution of a new plan for getting officers of the clubs in counties into closer contact and the success of the method in bringing the officials together for discussion of problems of local nature has attracted the attention of Lions in other sections of the state.

The recommendation was made following a lengthy discussion of a proposal that officers of the district be organized into four groups instead of two.

Rowland Is President

Dr. E. H. Rowland, of this city, is president of the officers' association of the district, and A. L. Perver, of Long Beach, is chairman of group two. The latter presided at the conference, held at St. Ann's Inn, with approximately 100 prominent men of the Southland in attendance.

The conference was honored by the presence of the district governor, W. E. Strel, of Oakland, who made brief remarks at the regular meeting of the Lions club here yesterday at noon, at the conference in the afternoon and again last night, at the conference banquet and dance, which closed the session of the Lions.

Finances of the officers' group and the subject of whether more clubs should be organized were among the discussions of the afternoon meeting. Discussions were had on lessons to be learned from the convention in San Francisco, uniform rules for classifications, attendance and dues and the planning of programs for club meetings. That programs must be of a character that will attract the interest of members and make them want to attend meetings was stressed in the discussions.

An inspirational address, by Walter Dext, head of Whittier college, was one of the outstanding features of the afternoon program. At the dinner, last night, Governor Strel announced that clubs in the district were organizing auxiliaries and Junior Lions clubs and he expressed the hope that the time would come when girls could become identified with a branch of Lionism.

"In this age of jazz and wild life, it would be fine to have the girls with us and imbue them with the ideals of Lionism," the governor said.

Emory Yundt, of Pomona, past governor of the district, commented on the fact that Lions International has changed from its early policy of limiting clubs to cities with 5000 or more population. He pointed out that the ideals of the order are expressed better on the smaller communities than on the larger centers of population.

Dr. Rowland officiated as toastmaster at the dinner.

Golf contests for visiting Lions were features of yesterday forenoon and, in the afternoon, women who accompanied their husbands to the conference were entertained in the lobby of the inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hummel, of Beverly Hills, former residents of this city, were among those who attended the conference and evening meeting.

The Lions' quartet, winner of the stunt contest at the district convention in San Francisco, made itself popular with numbers offered at the luncheon and the banquet. Caesar Cianfoni favored the noon meeting with a group of trombone numbers.

YORBA LINDA

YORBA LINDA, Oct. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Knight and daughter were visitors at Huntington Beach on Sunday.

The opening meeting of the Yorba Linda Woman's club was held Tuesday, a 12:30 o'clock luncheon being served for the 50 women in attendance. Following the luncheon the club president, Mrs. A. W. Miller, presided and welcomed the old and new members. There was singing by the members, with the chairman of music, Mrs. Ben Selover, at the piano. Mrs. Mildred Zschaska accompanied on the violin. Mrs. L. Allbee was leader. The president had reports from heads of committees and chairmen. Mrs. Marsha Vernon explained the sale of Christmas cards, of which she is in charge, and Mrs. E. E. Knight, district president, told of her attendance at the annual convention of the Federation of Women's clubs, held at Atlantic City this year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Conley determined this year to see all of the Pomona fair, so purchased a season ticket and have been there all week. Those seen in attendance on Wednesday from here were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hargrave, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Richter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day, Mr. and Mrs. W. Swain and Mr. and Mrs. B. Selover.

W. Kelley attended funeral services in Los Angeles on Monday for his sister, who passed away suddenly at her home there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Her and family moved back to their former home in Pasadena this week.

DATA ON OCEAN LANDS SOUGHT BY COMMITTEE

Asa Hoffman presided at the meeting, Wednesday night, when the county-wide committee, appointed to make suggestions concerning public ownership of ocean frontage, met for organization.

The committee has started search for definite data regarding land areas on the ocean front and will issue maps and other reports for general use. The committee was surprised to find the large area already owned by the city of Newport Beach and the plans under way for extending the area.

Committee members are Asa Hoffman, of Santa Ana, who will act as chairman; B. H. Sidman, of Anaheim; Roy Peacock, Laguna Beach; Harvey Gardner, Santa Ana; N. M. Launer, La Habra; Arley Leck, San Juan Capistrano; J. S. Reagan, Villa Park, and Richard Gregory, of Fullerton.

Members of the committee will visit the coastline of Orange county to personally inspect locations and, after their visit, will hold conferences with representative groups in various parts of the county in order to get direct contact with sentiment regarding extending public ownership to new areas in the county.

Noted Minister Laguna Visitor

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 1.—Dr. Fred Webb, D. D., Ph. D., a well known minister of the gospel, as well known as an athlete, and a member of the committee formed by the late Warren G. Harding to settle the Indianapolis strike, is a visitor to Laguna Beach. Dr. Webb, who is traveling for relaxation, refuses to be interviewed on any subject except good camping spots and how the fish are biting. It is a vacation for Dr. Webb and he says that he is making the most of it.

Dr. Webb found an old neighbor in Laguna Beach, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, who knew him back in England. Dr. Webb is camping out Arch Beach way and expects to remain here for another week.

Hold Frank King Funeral Monday

The Rev. W. W. Hull will officiate. Burial will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

OFFICIAL SEES BIG LOSSES IN GASOLINE WAR

There is neither sound nor sane economic reason for the series of price cuts in gasoline and no company participating in the slashing can hope to maintain the new low prices for any length of time without tremendous financial loss, in the opinion of A. G. Tucker, district manager here for the Richfield Oil company.

Tucker said that statistics of the oil industry on the Pacific coast will show gasoline in storage actually is decreasing, with consumption increasing far in excess of production.

"Various brands of 'bootleg' gasoline have been put on the market by some companies in an effort to regain lost gallonage, but our company never has met such competition," Tucker commented.

"The Richfield company is not a price-cutting organization, but when one of the large companies saw fit to cut the price, in Los Angeles, the company management felt the only logical move was to make the cut general throughout its territory.

"The move was not made with malice toward any of our competitors, but simply in line with what was considered a sound principle of merchandising. We have only one quality gasoline and one price and cannot consistently or fairly discriminate against any particular area in our territory of distribution, as would have been the case had we met the cut only in the Los Angeles district.

"We never have asked our friends or dealers to pay a premium to do business with us and, when one of the sound marketing companies offered gasoline to the consuming public and to the retailer at a lower price than our established schedule, we felt obligated to meet the lower price."

Santa Anans Will Hear Founder of Midnight Mission

Tom Liddecoat, founder and superintendent of the Midnight mission, 126 South Los Angeles street, Los Angeles, will give his continental tour lecture, "Salvaging Human Wrecks in Hell's Half Acre," in the First Baptist church here at 7:30 p. m., Sunday, it was announced today by the Rev. Otto S. Russell, pastor.

The musical prelude will be by Los Angeles singers, Mirtella Clarke, soprano; Earl Meeker, baritone; Etta Conkle, soprano, and Theophilus Fitz, tenor.

"Liddecoat takes care of more men than some of the larger Christian and charitable organizations and police say that he is doing more to cure crime conditions in Los Angeles than any other individual," the Rev. Mr. Russell said, in pointing out that the Midnight mission feeds 200 to 400 "down and outs" every midnight in the week.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Purges" and "Physics" Bad for Old Folks

While Dr. W. B. Caldwell, of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, knew that constipation was the curse of advancing age, he did not believe that a "purge" or "physic" every little while was necessary.

To him, it seemed cruel that so many constipated old people had to be kept constantly "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to "regulate" the bowels of old folks. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but each dose helps to strengthen natural muscles, shortly establishing natural "regularity." It never gripes, sickens or upsets the system. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

If past fifty, buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself.

CITY ATTORNEY POSITION HERE WILL BE OPEN BY JANUARY 1

West Will Vacate Post to Take Over County Prosecutor Nelson's Duties

S. A. COUNCIL WILL SELECT SUCCESSOR

Some Members of Profession Think Compensation For Service Not Enough

The Santa Ana city council is going to have a plum—or is it a plum?—to hand to some attorney in this city on or about January 1, 1927.

Into whose lap that plum is going to drop is of deep interest not only to those eligible for the gift but also to the general public, for the legal direction of the community is involved.

The plum is the office of city attorney.

Z. B. West jr., was elected district attorney to succeed A. P. Nelson, at the August primaries and he will surrender his city position by January 1. West is out of town on a vacation and a statement could not be obtained today as to whether he would continue his official connection with the city up to the last day of the present year, or would resign at an earlier date.

In the opinion of some members of the legal fraternity, the compensation of the office of city attorney is not sufficient for the service rendered. There attaches to the position other considerations, however, that make it desirable to those who are seeking advancement in their profession. Special attention to municipal law and the prominence the position gives are some of the advantages.

Monthly Salary is $150
The city attorney's salary, established by ordinance, is $150 a month, with an extra allowance of $100 a month for a stenographer. Attorney Clyde Bishop today expressed the sentiment of many members of the bar when he said the salary of the city attorney should be not less than $250 a month.

"Santa Ana has reached a magnitude where a keen legal mind should be at the call of the city council in directing the business affairs of the city," Bishop said. "The salary should be large enough to attract the very best attorneys. Santa Ana is a corporation with $18,000,000 of taxable property and the city attorney is required to take care of all legal matters that may arise."

Quite disagreeing with the views of Attorney Bishop, Mayor Frank Purinton expressed the opinion that the salary of $150 a month is ample to attract to the office attorneys

BILLY SUNDAY TO PERFORM WITH SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS

Billy Sunday will be one of the attractions with Sells-Floto when the "earth's best circus" shows here Friday, October 8. Billy is one of 15 elephants with the circus and he was named for the celebrated evangelist because he is known as a good elephant—one of the best behaved, in fact, of the three herds. A combined weight of the elephants with the circus is about 100 tons and among these ponderous and peaceful pachyderms are such famous animals as "Mo," named for the state of Missouri, during an exhibition of the show at Kansas City; "Kas," named for Kansas City, at the same time; "Mom," made famous by Courtney Riley Cooper, in his stories of circus life; "Tribby" and "Fannie," whose specialty is the hula-hula dance in appropriate costumes.

SCHOOL DOCTOR SEEN AS NEEDED IN SANTA ANA

That public sentiment is wholeheartedly in favor of the employment of a full-time physician for Santa Ana's public schools was indicated from interviews today with several leading physicians, educators and members of the Parent-Teacher association. The duties of a school physician would be divided between the various schools, although he would have headquarters in the high school where he would spend four hours each day. An hour each day would be devoted to the junior high schools and the rest of the day spent in various grammar schools. The doctor would not give medical treatment except in cases of first aid. However, he would examine students and aid in corrective work for physical deformities. Those needing medical attention would be sent to the family physician.

According to Walter L. Scott, head of boys' physical education work in the Santa Ana high school, Santa Ana's school system has advanced as far as it can without employing a school physician. He said that the school had an ideal gymnasium, good physical education equipment and an unusually good staff of teachers.

Doctors in Most Schools
"The next step in advancing the system will be to employ a school physician. Physicians are found in most schools of this size," Scott said.

"Having a doctor on hand to examine students would help materially in turning out a stronger, healthier boy or girl," Scott declared. "For, instead of having one examination and then being 'shelved' for the year, the student would receive examinations often, thus causing the training he receives in gym work to change as do his requirements."

Miss Helen L. Woodworth, county health nurse, declared that the proposition met with her full approval. She added that she believed it would be more of a success if there was a good school program in

FARM-ADVISOR RETURNS FROM EASTERN TRIP

Journey Through 32 States Leaves Wahlberg Full of Optimism for California

Full of optimism for California, Harold Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, and Mrs. Wahlberg have returned from a trip which took them, through 32 states and parts of Canada and Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Wahlberg left Santa Ana in the second week of July.

Wahlberg made a particular study of conditions in Florida, as regards agricultural and horticultural products, especially oranges, lemons and avocados, bringing back with him several exhibits of typical Florida citrus land. An examination of these samples at the office of the farm advisor showed this soil to be 90 per cent sand, which led Wahlberg to observe that if the Florida growers are to make any great progress in citrus culture considerable fertilization must be done.

Florida impressed Wahlberg as being a state of sand dunes, lakes and swamps, but even with these drawbacks he gave the people of Florida much credit for making great industrial and agricultural progress in the last few years.

Visits Alma Mater

The first stop was made in San Francisco, where Mr. and Mrs. Wahlberg attended the Lions International convention. From there the couple went to Corvallis, Ore., where the farm advisor visited at Oregon Agricultural college, of which he is a graduate. The trip then included Portland, Hood River, Tacoma, Seattle, Victoria, Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff, Kamloops and to Winnipeg, Man., where the farm advisor visited the Manitoba experiment station. He found wheat prospects under normal there because of late rains, but said that he did not visit the best wheat section of Canada.

In all the time the Wahlbergs were in Canada they did not see a drunken man.

In St. Paul, Minn., the couple went out to the university, where the Santa Ana man was informed that the corn crop was a little backward, but that, in general, the agricultural condition in the lake states is favorable, due to increased development of the dairy business, which the business men and bankers are favoring strongly.

Chicago Noisy, Dirty

The Wahlbergs found Chicago noisy and dirty, just the reverse of the impression left upon them by Detroit, which they observed to be a clean, bustling manufacturing city. They visited the Dodge Brothers and Ford plants. Mrs. Wahlberg ventured the assertion that the Detroit women were the best dressed in all of the cities through which they passed.

In Guelph, Ontario, home of the Ontario Agricultural college, Wahlberg had an enjoyable visit with the crown attorney, to whom he had been given a letter of introduction by Alex. Brownridge, of Santa Ana. The Canadian Pacific railroad had had a great deal to do with the present development of the dominion, in the opinion of the farm advisor, operating extensive publicity and agricultural bureaus to encourage the settling of new lands.

In Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Wahlberg were surprised to find 70 per cent of the people of French nationality or extraction. The policemen, street car conductors and store clerks all speak French and the French restaurants serve French food. Wahlberg was much impressed with the permanency of the

COUNTY PEACE OFFICERS WILL HOLD MEETING

The October meeting of the Orange County Peace Officers' association will be held in the American Legion hall, Anaheim, Wednesday night, October 6, according to announcement today by Herman Zabel, president of the organization.

An unusually large entertainment program has been arranged for the meeting, together with a number of interesting talks by men high in police circles, Zabel said.

Capt. Jack Bean, head of the Los Angeles detective bureau, will be the principal speaker of the evening. He will talk on two interesting crimes, homicide and arson, relating several well known cases in Southern California, recently.

Captain Bean is a police officer of the old school and his police work has made him well known throughout the country. He has been with the Los Angeles department for a number of years. It will be his first appearance before the Orange County Peace Officers' association.

A talk on compensation paid by the state to injured police officers will be delivered by a Los Angeles man, also, Zabel said.

The meeting will open with a dinner at 6:30 to be served by the Anaheim auxiliary of the American Legion. More than 75 officers in the county are expected to attend.

The discussion for the evening will pertain to additional insurance for the officers, especially accident insurance, Zabel said.

Phil Swing to Be Beach Realtors' Guest October 7

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 1.—Realtors here are making plans for a big time at their meeting next Thursday noon. Phil Swing, congressman from this district, will be the guest of honor at the meeting.

The meeting will be held at the Rotary Sweet shop. C. P. Patton, president of the club will be in charge.

PROPERTY OWNERS ARE FRANK IN STATEMENT OF VIEWS ON PROPOSED SANTA ANA ZONING

A general "pow-wow" of North Main street property owners with Dr. Carol Aronovici, city planning consultant, and members of the city planning commission, held yesterday afternoon in the city council chambers, resulted in the commission and the consultant obtaining a frank and full statement of views on the part of the property owners, which information will be considered when the lines of zoning finally are drawn up.

The meeting was called to order by Col. S. W. Finley, who introduced Dr. Aronovici. The planning consultant said that the suggestions and criticisms of the property owners were desired and that further meetings of the same nature were planned as regards the zoning plans of other Santa Ana districts. He made it plain that zoning ordinances are not retroactive and could not force a property owner to change a business already established. He also stated that the term "business" in city planning applies only to business of the retail trade and does not include gasoline stations and garages.

Questions Are Raised
J. E. Liebig asked whether, if a "non-conforming" building burned down, the owner could rebuild the same sort of a building, even though it be located in a zone with restrictions against that particular type. The planning consultant replied that if the building were more than 40 per cent destroyed by the fire the same type could not be rebuilt, unless the owner came before the city council and obtained special permission.

The planning consultant then explained that two types of business zones were contemplated, one embracing class "A" buildings, with certain fire regulations; the second class of buildings limited to two stories, of cheaper construction than class "A" buildings.

The discussion then centered around how far the class "A" buildings should be allowed on North Main street and where the second class of buildings should begin, or whether all the buildings on North Main street should be either class "A" or entirely of the second classification.

Favors Business Street
Mrs. E. E. Remsburg stated that she believed North Main street should be made a business street and that no obstacles should be placed in the path of commercial development. Mrs. Remsburg was applauded.

D. J. Cole expressed the opinion that the property owners should be allowed to build as high as they desired, without restrictions.

J. C. Horton said that he was in favor of allowing buildings of brick and wood on North Main street, with a line established beyond which class "A" buildings of more than two stories could not be constructed.

J. W. McCormack was strongly of the opinion that the property owners should be left alone and that Orange and Santa Ana, by means of the commercial buildings on North Main street, should be encouraged to join together.

Mrs. J. R. Medlock expressed herself as strongly favoring the designation of North Main street as a business thoroughfare.

Dr. Aronovici inquired concerning the policy of the city council if a property owner wished to build a residence in a strictly business district. Dr. Aronovici replied that

BIRTH RECORDS OF COUNTY NOT COMPLETE. AS LAW REQUIRES

Few Doctors File Certificates With Local Registrars Within Time Limit

CAUSED CONFUSION DURING WORLD WAR

Carelessness May Result In Legal Complications In Regard to Natal Day

Has the birth of your new baby been announced in the home paper? Or must your friends wait for this very important bit of news until your formal announcements arrive?

If so, your doctor is most likely to blame.

Few of them, investigation shows, comply with the state law, which requires birth certificates to be filed with the local registrar by doctor, midwife or nurse, within four days after the birth occurs.

This is one of the phases of carelessness that is responsible for a situation whereby Orange county is without complete record of its births. Another phase is the neglect of local registrars to provide the county recorder with a copy of birth certificates filed with the registrar, as the law also requires.

Habit of Neglect

Whether this habit of neglect, which appears to blanket both the birth attendant and the registrar, has resulted in complete omission of many births from the record is a matter of speculation. Whether the doctor, who generally is so busy that he cannot find time to file the certificate promptly, may even forget to file it at all, is a question that only the doctor can answer—now. Later, when that birth record is needed badly for some legal purpose, others would discover the omission. And they might suffer severe hardship because of it.

So far as can be told, the doctors eventually file the birth certificates with the local registrar, who must file a report once a month with the state board of health, together with the original certificates. The registrar also is supposed to keep a copy himself and send a copy to the county recorder. The law specifies that the certificates shall be filed with the local registrar within four days of the event, but most of the doctors, it is said, merely see that their certificates are filed before the time for the report to be made to the state.

Matter of Opinion

No less rights are imposed upon by that practice, it would seem. Any exception would be rare. The only injury done by it is whatever comes through failure of public announcement of the event, which may be purely a matter of opinion. The press, which would doubtless publish birth statistics, if such were available, and which does publish whatever it can garner through its own efforts, is unable to get this news until it is "stale." Friends of families in which births occur may feel injured by inability of the press to inform them. Anyone else interested in the event, for any reason, might feel the same injury. And the law requires that the certificates shall be filed within four days, which give the press a chance to make this record public in fact as well as theory.

If the birth certificate is not filed

Farm Advisor Back from Trip buildings at the grounds of the Montreal Agricultural exposition, which he visited a week before the show was to open. In that respect, he said, California outdoor shows could well copy the Canadian idea and build for permanency.

Corn Worm Problem

In the states around New York, the farm expert found that the chief agricultural problem is to stop the inroads of the corn worm, or borer, which not only eats the corn, but consumes the stalks and roots as well. A strict quarantine is being enforced to keep the infested area as small as possible.

One of the observations that Wahlberg made and which was impressed upon him over the entire trip, was that there is ample room for expansion in the United States. There is plenty of room for 10 times the present population and the cry of over-population is 100 years too soon, he declared. Particularly was this impression made stronger by the two-day ride through Texas.

In Bagon, Me. Mrs. Wahlberg's relatives were visited. The New England farmers still pursue the policy of laissez-faire, Wahlberg said, not being inclined to modernize at the expense of too much energy expended. He said that he found cities of 10,000 that had remained at that population figure for 40 years and probably would remain that size the rest of their existence. In Aroostook county, Maine, Wahlberg visited the vast potato fields. Aroostook county is second only to Los Angeles county in agricultural wealth and, while the farm advisor was there, a number of potato growers from the southern states were in the vicinity to purchase seed stock. They visited the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia, and described it as a "frost."

From Maine, the couple went south through the New England states, through Virginia to Florida, where Wahlberg wished to make a study of the agricultural and horticultural situation.

Escaped Miami Storm

The tropical storms may have had a disastrous effect upon the morale of the Floridians, Wahlberg said, but the spirit of rehabilitation will become dominant. The Florida winter resorts were making preparations for a busy season when they were there. In Tampa, Orlando, Lakeland and St. Petersburg, the Wahlbergs were amazed at the number of real estate offices, some of which were entirely deserted. The day before the recent tropical hurricane, they turned back and escaped the storm. They got into New Orleans just six hours before the storm hit that city.

The return trip was made via Houston, San Antonio, El Paso, and Los Angeles.

AT THE THEATERS

Raymond Griffith and Helene Costello in a scene from "Wet Paint," current attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

H. B. Warner and Lilyan Tashman in a scene from the film, "Whispering Smith," now showing at the Yost theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Want to be entertained?
Don't miss "The Texas Streak." Hoot Gibson's latest rip-roaring picture which is providing amusement for the patrons of the West Coast-Walker theater now.

The picture has few serious moments. With "Hoot" Gibson in his best comedy mood, "The Texas Streak" is a vastly amusing affair, traveling at a rapid gait, with many novel developments of plot, and much breath-taking riding and battling.

Blanche Mehaffey, as the feminine lead, makes a lovely contrast to the rugged masculine members of the cast, and gives a splendid performance.

"Slim" Summerville and Jack Curtis, as Hoot's pals, add many splendid comedy scenes. Alan Roscoe as the villain of the piece, James Marcus, Jack Murphy, William H. Turner and others are very good in supporting roles.

The stage presentation at the West Coast-Walker offers entertainment. It is Fanchon and Marco "Specialties Idea," featuring Way Watts and his band in new and novel numbers. The genial smile of Way Watts is making him one of the best known and liked bandmasters in Southern California.

Others on the bill include Leo Mason and "Sunny" in a skit entitled "Follies and Foolies;" Jean Winslow, a "wonder baritone;" Duke Atteberry, the "Duke of K-N-X;" and Helen Newcombe in "Specialty Dances."

YOST THEATER

Comes to the screen a new type of Western screen play—melodrama, sympathetic, and pictorially beautiful.

Exceptionally well acted and directed this picture brings together the two great elements of early empire building—the railroads and the elements both human and natural, which had to be mastered in order to push the line over the Rockies.

"Whispering Smith" is the picture shown with great success at the Yost theater last night, is a character presented by H. B. Warner, who is sent from the East to stop bridge burning and train wrecking, and he performs his task quite effectively.

It is a fast moving story, with a decidedly competent cast. There is a fine love romance that runs throughout the story which ultimately reaches a most sympathetic ending.

H. B. Warner, in the title role makes his characterization a living thing, and Lilyan and Tashman, Lillian Rich and John Bowers are artistic in their portrayals.

Newcom sells Volck Spray.

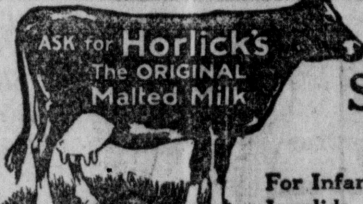

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

A breath of fresh air blew into town last night. It always does when a Raymond Griffith comedy arrives. And the advent of "Wet Paint," his latest picture, was no exception to the rule.

This young man, who always seems to look so darned "dressed-up," is in all truth one of the screen's leading comedians. With just a toss of his head, he expresses an emotion. Pretty, his eyes blink and you know something else is registered. More and more are movie-goers learning to realize his true value. And the crowd which attended the "Wet Paint" premiere at the Yost Broadway theater, seemed to think he was great. Certainly in the way they laughed, the farce must have been funny.

"Wet Paint" is the ridiculously funny tale of the rich young man who is tricked into a proposal. Helene Costello is featured as "She." Bryant Washburn is "Her Brother."

"Duke" Atteberry, radio favorite of station KNX, of Hollywood, playing at the West Coast-Walker theater, is very well known in Santa Ana, having appeared before the junior chamber of commerce some months ago with "Count" Spagano, his partner in the radio frolics.

Atteberry is doing a comedy turn on the West Coast bill, doing the featured specialty. Santa Ana audiences have proved themselves appreciative of the sort of thing the "Duke" provides, according to the theater management. Atteberry and other members of the present bill will close their Santa Ana engagement tomorrow night, to appear for three days in San Pedro. The "Duke" just finished a two weeks' engagement in Long Beach.

Decision Blasts Taxpayers' Hopes

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1.—Hopes of California taxpayers that they might collect inheritance and income tax refunds totaling approximately $100,000,000 were shattered yesterday, when the state supreme court denied a rehearing of the famous Stewart vs. Stewart case.

The court reaffirmed its decision of some weeks ago that a wife has no vested interest in community property, and that her only interest is one of expectancy that she will receive one-half the property in event of the dissolution of the marriage by death or divorce.

Under the decision, a husband and wife cannot file separate income tax returns.

This upset hopes that each might be able to claim exemption.

Dear Lois:

Lois Stephens

Santa Ana, October 1.

Dear Lois:—Until this last week I never had realized how awfully particular men and boys are where their clothes are concerned. And the one to show me just how they felt was my young brother, Jimmie. I always have thought him rather careless about his dress but now am of entirely a different mind.

He came to Santa Ana last week so that he could buy a new suit at Huff's clothing store. He always liked to go there "because," he said, "they make you feel so much at home." So there we went. Oh yes, I went too. I was asked to go, which was a great honor, I assure you.

We certainly spent enough time in that store, for he had to look at a dozen suits at least and try on several before he made up his mind to take one. He was more particular than a girl buying a new party dress. If I had been the clerk to wait on him I should have wanted to give up in disgust. Finally he made up his mind on a dark blue one, which was very becoming to his blondness. There were others, though, of brighter hue, which were most attractive, but he didn't seem to care for them so I expressed the opinion that I knew he wished, which is the reason Jimmie always takes me shopping with him.

Buy Shoes At Newcomb's

After we had purchased the suit and some shirts, we went to Newcomb's to get some new shoes. He was awfully particular there, too, but finally found a pair that suited him. In the meantime I was looking at shoes in general and saw the prettiest pair of silver evening slippers. They would be nice with so many things and could be worn with nearly every color that is being worn this year for evening. I think that they would be a most sensible pair of shoes to own, but doubt if ever I shall own any.

Jimmie always is interested in football, so we walked past Jimmie Livesey's so that he could gaze on all of the implements of that particular brand of warfare. Mr. Livesey gave us a tiny booklet and in it was pictured everything necessary for a football player to wear. Jimmie and I agreed that it would be just as easy to be knight in the days of chivalry and wear armor as to be a football player and wear all the shoulder pads, knee pads, ankle braces, shin protectors and protectors for noses, as well as a lot of other things.

It was then for the first time that are made by combining the milk and flour a little at a time. Thus you control the mixing process. Hills Bros. follow this principle of control in roasting coffee. Only a little at a time is roasted, and a perfect flavor is the result.

Fluffy biscuits and muffins

You can't forget the enchanting flavor of Hills Bros Coffee

AND you can't find it in any other coffee, either. That fragrant aroma as you break the seal of the vacuum tin . . . that sublime flavor of every savory sip, proves to you that Hills Bros.' patented process of roasting makes all the difference in the world.

The coffee-loving West joins you in drinking Hills Bros. Always ask for it by name and look for the Arab on the can. Be sure to write for a free copy of "The Art of Entertaining." Address Hills Bros., 2 Harrison St., San Francisco.

It has been so cold at night lately that many minds have turned to flannel bed clothing or whatever those downy looking coverings are called. I speak of them because the window in the New York store is "loaded" with them. All sizes and colors and qualities. It is a most interesting display and I imagine that more than one person remembers how cold his feet were in the middle of the night when he sees them. After remembering, he probably goes home and informs mother that he knows of a good place to buy warm blankets, which is, of course, the New York store.

Nothing has happened especially of which I can write you, Lois, so I shall stop. (Surely that is a most conventional and worn out ending). Remember me to your grandmother.

BIRTH RECORDS NOT COMPLETE

at all, legal complications some day may result. Birth records often figure in matters of both civil and criminal law; inheritance cases, citizenship, cases involving age of consent and others. Sometimes the absence of a birth record can be remedied by affidavit; not always.

Doctors Were Careless

A few years ago, the recording of births in Orange county was said to be even more haphazard than it appears to be now. At that time the county recorder was registrar for the entire county. Doctors were careless about filing their certificates. Midwives often didn't even know they were supposed to be filed. When the war came there was much confusion over birth records of the service men for one reason or another. And now, it is said, there should be great care taken with recording the birth of these soldiers' heirs, with an eye to pension and insurance matters in the years to come.

In August, 1921, the system of recording births was changed. The state board of health arranged a division of the county into districts, with a local registrar for each district. The city clerks of the various cities were appointed registrars for their cities and the surrounding territory. That made matters more convenient for the doctors and is said to have improved conditions. But the requirement that certificates shall be filed within four days of the event still is largely ignored. Not by all doctors, however. Some of them, it is said, are very punctual with their certificates.

No Complete Record

Although the county recorder is supposed to receive a copy of each certificate filed, the county has no complete record of births. Local registrars, with two exceptions, have signally failed to observe this requirement of them, according to Miss Justine Whitney, county recorder. The two exceptions are City Clerk E. L. Vegely, of Santa Ana, and City Clerk F. C. Hermalbach, of Fullerton, both of whom comply with the regulation strictly, it is said. The county record, therefore, includes only births of the Santa Ana and Fullerton districts.

When the new system was inaugurated, Miss Whitney attempted to keep a complete, index record of births in the county. But his effort was abandoned when the registrars grew lax in their duty.

special legislation by the city council would be required.

Restrictions Suggested

A property owner then suggested that the district on North Main street, from Fourth street to Tenth street, should be restricted to class "A" buildings and that the district between Tenth street and Seventeenth street should be confined to business buildings of the second class. In the tentative map, drawn up by Dr. Aronovitch, the class "A" district would extend to Seventh street and include only half of the distance to Bush street and Sycamore street, to prevent any class "A" buildings fronting on those two streets.

One of the first duties of the city council will be to adopt an ordinance, the planning consultant pointed out, which undoubtedly would do away with many of the objections raised by property owners to business buildings.

New Contest On Will Is Started

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 30.—A new contest over the $5,000,000 will of the late Dr. Norman Bridges was started here Wednesday, when the Barlow Sanatorium association, one of the beneficiaries under the will, filed an objection to the petition of Dr. Bridges' sister, Susan Hatch. The petition requested that the estate be administered in this city, but the association holds that Dr. Bridges was a resident of Chicago and not Los Angeles.

Serve it to your family in any one of 25 different ways. It delights the palate, fills out the rosy color return. After a few weeks you will look back on the hurried school breakfasts with wonder. Irregular and incomplete elimination of waste cannot make for anything but tired nerves and undernourished bodies. After Roman Meal has become a regular part of your family's diet, served each day, some way, the children who were thin, too easily fatigued and irritable, will become quiet-eyed and sturdy.

But Roman Meal is not alone a children's breakfast food. It delights the most fastidious palate, and can be served as muffins, hot cakes, rolls and in many other ways.

CITY ATTORNEY POSITION HERE WILL BE OPEN

fully competent to take care of the legal requirements of the city.

"The position does not require the full time of the person holding the office," Purinton said. "But competence is necessary because of the many important matters involved in the handling of the business of a city the size of Santa Ana."

Accuracy Is Important

"Street proceedings consume most of the time given to the community by the city attorney. These proceedings are exacting and must be drawn with the greatest accuracy. Otherwise projects started on street work might be interfered with and costly delays occasioned."

In the course of a month many propositions are submitted to the council that require the advice of an attorney as to the legality of action that could or should be taken. These questions require time and study by the city's legal adviser.

It is also known that the attorney often is the "cushion" between the council and property owners in many civic affairs, and that property owners frequently take up his time in discussion of points in which both the individual and the city are vitally concerned.

So far as could be ascertained today, there has been no wild clamor among local attorneys to step into the shoes West will step out of on or about the first day of next year. No direct application for the appointment has been filed with officials, according to Mayor Purinton.

The names of several well known local lawyers have been mentioned in connection with the vacancy, but none of these have filed formal applications.

Among attorneys who have been mentioned in street rumors are Franklin G. West, brother of the incumbent; Clyde Downing, president of the chamber of commerce; G. K. Seovel, Otto Jacobs, Charles Swanner and S. B. Kaufman.

School Doctor Is Santa Ana Need

regard to public health nurses.

"I have wanted a school physician to be added to the Santa Ana school board for the last two years. I have worked for it whenever possible and at last a move is being taken in that direction," declared Dr. V. G. Presson, Orange county health officer.

Mrs. Fay Spangler, president of the city federation, P.-T. A., said that the installing of city school physician had been one of the aims of the P.-T. A. and that every mother connected with that body was back of the movement.

J. A. Cranston and Dr. John Ball

announced themselves as in favor of the movement. Dr. Ball said that there had been some talk of such a doctor taking from the practice of established physicians. "This, of course, is not true, as such a doctor would co-operate with other physicians in the city in every possible way," Dr. Ball said.

WILL NOT PICK GRAPES ON TWO DAYS OF WEEK

FRESNO, Oct. 1.—Grape growers of the Fresno district, which includes Madera, Fresno, Tulare, Kings and Kern counties, will not pick the fruit on Saturday and Sunday for the remainder of the season and shippers will remain idle on Sundays if a gentlemen's agreement, reached by 400 growers and shippers here, is abided by.

It was estimated that 50 per cent of the growers and shippers in this district were represented at the meeting, at which a resolution to stop picking on Saturdays and Sundays and shipping on Sundays was unanimously adopted.

The purpose of the meeting was to devise a plan whereby the congested condition of eastern markets would be abated. It was pointed out that 1619 cars were at 12 major eastern markets on September 17, and 2915 cars on September 23. It also was said that 836 cars were shipped Wednesday and that the maximum should have been 600.

Those interested in the grape industry agreed that if this condition continues the industry will be in "red ink" at the end of the year, and that it would be better to leave grapes on the vines than to pay shipping expenses and sell them at low prices.

Proponents of the plan pointed out that eastern markets are closed Saturday and Sunday, while picking and shipping continues here, that one car that will sell at $2 a package would bring more profit than 10 cars selling at $1.25 a package, and that it would be better to pay labor on a six-day basis for five days' work.

Frank M. Hill, manager of the Fresno Traffic association, presided at the meeting.

TEACHERS STILL WIELD ROD, STRAP ON UNRULY SCHOLARS WHEN "LICKINS" NECESSARY

Do they still wield the rod and the stinging strap in Santa Ana's city schools?

Do they unlimber the heavy ruler artillery on the palms of the hands of "ungentlemanly" striplings who pull the bobbed tresses of the girls in front of them?

Are these measures to enforce discipline and respect for constituted authority left to the discretion of the teachers or the principals? Or, is it a matter for the city superintendent? Or, like man of our institutions, have the "lickins" gone their way, never to return?

Every father in the city probably has taken a whipping at school sometime, and therefore has his own private opinion on the subject.

Many parents are under the impression that the state school law prohibits corporal punishment in the public schools and but few know their children are under the concurrent jurisdiction and control of the school authorities while in school.

Teachers Have Authority

The school law further requires teachers to exercise a general inspection over the conduct of pupils going to and returning from school. They shall exert their influence to prevent all quarreling and disagreement, all rude and noisy behavior in the streets, all vulgar and profane language, all improper games, and all disrespect to citizens and strangers. To accomplish that end, teachers may assert their authority whenever the occasion demands their interference.

"Until we change human nature and natural tendencies in youngsters, corporal punishment will remain a necessary disciplinary measure in the schools," declared City Superintendent J. A. Cranston. "If it were not for this method to deal with certain unruly kids, it would be impossible to maintain law and order in the schools, much less to secure educational results."

"The policy of the board of education is to discourage the use of corporal punishment," he added, "and to resort to it only when all other means to bring a pupil into line have failed."

No Law to Prohibit Rod

Inquiries at the office of R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, revealed that there is in the California school law nothing to prohibit corporal punishment in the schools. Expulsion and suspension are not the only means of maintaining order. Of course, the rod and strap, the county superintendent pointed out, should be resorted to only in extreme cases, and should be administered with discretion and in the presence of one or two competent witnesses.

Both Mitchell and Cranston agreed that the schools would fail of fulfilling their most important mission if the only way of meeting the cases of open defiance of authority and continued disrespect and insubordination was to turn the offenders loose on the streets, free from all control and restraint.

The matter of maintaining discipline is one of the greatest problems that confronts a principal, Cranston asserted. Because of this fact, the ability to maintain discipline is one of the main qualifications for an efficient teacher. Many highly trained instructors, with years of professional training to their credit, have been forced to leave the teaching profession because of their deficiency in this respect, he said.

Experienced Teachers Sought
Because of this requirement, every effort is being made to obtain the services of experienced teachers, and under no circumstances are graduates from universities or teachers' colleges placed in charge of children in the adolescent age, the city superintendent explained.

"But there are teachers and teachers," commented the school executive. "Personality, force and character are as necessary as professional training. Some teachers have no difficulty in maintaining order and getting results while others are unable to deal with the slightest infraction of discipline."

Further inquiries disclosed that it has been held by the courts that teachers have a perfect right to administer reasonable corporal punishment. It was brought out, however, that boards of education have exclusive jurisdiction in these premises, and may prescribe rules prohibiting its use as a corrective measure.

While neither Mitchell nor Cranston was willing to state definitely that they are opposed to corporal punishment in principle, they made it plain that they favored such measures as would win the respect and affection of the pupils to such an extent as to eliminate entirely the use of harsh measures.

W. K. Kellogg

Worn and weary—but not from work

ONLY a few months ago he was feeling fine. A full desk meant nothing more than a full day—a challenge which he eagerly accepted. Life was worth living then. . . . But now . . . now he seemed eternally tired, lifeless, exhausted. His head was dull and achy. Work was a frightful bore. Life was barren of interest. Where would it all end? . . .

In the work-a-day world there are thousands of men and women who suffer from constipation. They try this and that, forever seeking relief and seldom finding it. Yet there is sure, permanent relief from this disease—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

As Kellogg's ALL-BRAN journeys through the system its fiber remains unchanged. It remains a bulk food, as doctors call it. Because of its bulk it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It stimulates the flow of digestive juices. It absorbs and carries moisture into the intestine and prompts it to natural, healthy action.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief, or your grocer will refund the purchase price. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone or with fresh or preserved fruit; with other cereals; use in soups, cook in hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the original ALL-BRAN—a 100% bran product. That is why doctors recommend it. Your grocer sells it. Get a package today. Also grocer in all hotels and restaurants.

TREES WILL BE PLANTED SOON IN PARK PLOT

A year from today 10,000 little trees will be growing in Orange county park, where none grew before.

That was the statement of A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange County Farm bureau, co-operating with County Supervisor Willard Smith, County Forester Robert Northcross, Supervisor J. E. Elliott, of the Cleveland National forest, and others interested in arousing a "forestry consciousness" in Orange county.

The seeds will be planted in the nursery plot in the park and will be cared for by prison labor from the county jail. The work will be supervised by the county forester.

The following varieties of seeds are represented in the shipments already received, the seeds having been donated:

Norway pine, Arizona ash, California redwood, (large and small) Canary Island pine, Monterey pine, incense cedar, Arizona cypress and Coulter pine.

The following donated the seeds: American Reforestation society, Aggeler-Musser Seed company, Los Angeles forestry department, Redwood Preservation society, department of agriculture, University of California.

The seeds were donated at the request of J. K. Munhall, orange grower, who has been the moving spirit in the promotion of the project.

The first planting will be made in the county park. Forester Northcross having located an especially desirable spot. Later, trees will be planted in Santiago canyon, on government-owned land. It is expected that the first trees will be set out about Oct. 1927.

PREVENTION OF FIRE PURPOSE OF PROPAGANDA

Next week, October 3 to 10, has been designated by the National Underwriters' association, as "fire prevention" week, according to John A. Henderson, president of the Santa Ana Association of Fire Insurance Agents. Henderson said that the motto for the week would be "It is better to be safe than sorry."

Henderson gave out the following list of "things to do to prevent fires":

"Keep waste paper, packing material and rubbish cleaned up and removed from building at least daily."

"Make frequent personal inspections from a fire standpoint."

"Instruct and drill employees on what to do in case of fire."

"Be careful about the use of matches."

"Put up 'no smoking' signs, especially in hazardous sections."

"Locate your nearest fire alarm box and learn how to turn in an alarm."

"See that your electric wiring is standard and be careful in the use of electrical devices."

"Have all smoke pipes and chimneys inspected and repaired by a competent person before starting fires for the winter."

"Keep gasoline in safety cans and in a safe place."

"Keep water barrels and pails filled and extinguishers charged."

"Use only safe floor oils and sweeping compounds."

"Feel your personal responsibility for possible loss of life and property by fire and act accordingly."

EPISODESCOREBOARD IS READY TO PLAY
WORLD SERIESSanta Ana baseball fans by the hundreds will flock to The Register building tomorrow morning to watch this newspaper's big electrically-controlled scoreboard faithfully and accurately reproduce every play of the first game in the 1926 world series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals.Saturday's game will begin at 10:30 o'clock, Santa Ana time.Sunday's contest will start a half hour later, at 11 o'clock, local time.
After these two tiffs, the clubs shift
the scene of their activity to St.
Louis where games will begin at 11:30 o'clock, our time. All games, except that of Sunday, will begin at 1:30 o'clock in New York and St. Louis, the difference between eastern and central time making similar changes necessary here.A special leased wire will be "cut" into the Yankee stadium and into the St. Louis park, giving The Register a direct connection and allowing the scoreboard to flash each and every play but a moment after it has actually occurred.The Register also will publish the complete story of all series games.
Henry L. Farrell, sports editor of the United Press, will dictate the play-by-play version and also the usual leads. Special stories, features and sidelights will be contributed by staff writers, including M. D. Tracy and Paul White of New York and Mark Childs of St.
Louis.

REGISTER'S BIG ELECTRIC SCOREBOARD READY TO "PLAY" WORLD SERIES

Here's The Register's electrically controlled baseball scoreboard and just a part of the crowd that watched it "play" one of the world series contests here last year. The big board has been hoisted into place and is ready to give its graphic and colorful story of this year's series, beginning tomorrow. Saturday's game will begin at 10:30 a. m., Santa Ana time. Sunday's game will start at 11 a. m., local time. The next three games, to be played Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in St. Louis, will start at 11:30 a. m., our time.Stanton to Play
El Modena SundayEl Modena and Stanton baseball teams will clash in a game Sunday at the American Legion park, West Fifth and Sullivan streets, Santa Ana. The game will begin at 2
p. m.The gloves worn by Dempsey and Tunney cost $14.60 a pair.GEORGE BLAEHOLDER TO HURL FOR OLD-TIMERS IN BENEFIT CONTEST AT IRVINE SUNDAYBig George Blaeholder, the pride of Garden Grove and the Western league's premier moundsman, today agreed to donate his services to the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce's benefit baseball game at Irvine park Sunday afternoon between the Orange county Old-Timers and Joe Rodgers' Republic Supply company team of Huntington Beach.Blaeholder was recently sold by Tulsa of the Western league, for whom he won 27 games this season, to the St. Louis Browns. He will pitch for the Old-Timers."Tuffy" Tyrrell, popular Santa Ana player, also readily consented to add his big war club to the Sabbath's attractions. Tyrrell just returned from a season of baseball with Tulsa and Enid, Okla. While playing with Enid he established an unofficial world's record by knocking out seven home runs in two consecutive games. He batted for an average of .436 in the Southwestern league.Tyrrell will play with the Old-Timers who also will present a lineup that includes such widely known past and present pastimers as "Gavy" Cravath, Sam Crawford,
Sam Dungan, Harry Gaspar, Frank Isbell, George Lackaye, Fred Mallett, Roy and Clair Henderson, Anson Mott, Guy Ments, Carl Stevens, Fred and Henry Hinrichs, Carl Sawyer and Roy ("Brownie") West.

Special attractions will include the appearance of Ed ("Strangler") Lewis, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, who will throw the first ball; Carl Sawyer, formerly of the Washington Americans and the Vernon Coast leaguers, who will do all his baseball tricks and Sanford's Snappy Six orchestra, which after a successful summer at Laguna Beach, will furnish music at the ball game.Penn's Transfer company has donated a truck to transport Sanford's orchestra through the streets of the city to publicize the game.Sam Dungan, formerly the leading hitter of the American league, will be the oldest man on the field and the most colorful. He can still hit with the best of these kids.

Dungan has agreed to play one or two innings and manage the Old-Timers.Rodgers will bring a ball club up to Irvine that won't need any sympathy from the fans. Herb Salve-son and "Buster" Callan will do the pitching and catching. Benedict, Dietzel, Huarte, Duhart, Ihrig, Callahan, McGuire and Rodgers also will be with the invaders.

WOMAN QUITS CHANNEL

DOVER, England, Oct. 1.—Miss E. L. Marriott of England, abandoned her fourth attempt to swim the English channel at 7:53 a. m.
today when she was within three miles of her goal.BILLY
SaysThe 1926 world series between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals will be one of those "homecoming affairs"—a classic between the old master and the ambitious pupil.Miller Huggins first gained managerial fame as the pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals. He won no pennants but showed enough ability to cause the owners of the New York Yankees to wear him over to their league.His success as leader of the Yankees is too well known to need much comment. He has already won three pennants and one world series. He appears to be on the threshold of another pennant.In the fall of 1915, a mere strip of a youth, reported to the Cardinals for a tryout. He came to the club as a shortstop. Miller Huggins, then in charge of the St.
Louis club, was impressed. However, the rookie appeared to lack the physical stamina necessary to stand the strain of the big league.

That Was Hornsby

The young man was Rogers Hornsby. He has developed into the premier second-sacker of the majors. As a manager he has shown ability on a par with his marvelous play.In this connection I recall a story that Miller Huggins recently told me that best gives an idea of the determination possessed by Hornsby, and in a measure explains the success that has come his way.After watching Hornsby in action for 18 games as shortstop, Huggins realized he possessed great ability, but was very inexperienced. It seemed he would need a year or two in the minors before he was ready for the big show.Desiring to let Hornsby know that he was pleased with his showing and to prepare him for a possible trip to the minors for a year or two, he called him aside and whispered thusly to him:"I regard you as a big league prospect, Hornsby, but I don't think you are quite ready. It

COUNTY LEAGUE
GRID ELEVEN
BEGIN SEASONDespite the fact that the Orange County Athletic league recently decided to play first team league games on Saturdays, six teams were in action this afternoon in their first league encounters. Huntington Beach, Anaheim and Orange, Fullerton, always a strong contender, will probably be crippled by the loss of men who are now attending Brea. Tustin has a green team and Garden Grove is placing its first in the running this year. Fullerton was further crushed yesterday when its star fullback, Tom McElheny, broke his ankle.The Garden Grove-Huntington Beach encounter at Garden Grove will be one of the most interesting contests today. Huntington Beach placed dependence on Nelson Barry, crack quarterback. Barry set up quite a reputation last year as a place kicker and is also a brainy little team director. Huntington Beach also has Luke Davis, star fullback of last year.Crockett, a guard, and Muller, an end, both last year lettermen, to strengthen the team.Munz Garden Grove Ace Coach W. W. Wieman, at Garden Grove, is pinning most of his hopes on Munz, slippery quarterback, and a big boy by the name of Dungan, who holds down the fullback position. Messersall at tackle; Harris and Chaffee at ends; Dozier and McCullough at halfback positions and Lake at guard are other strong men on the Grove team.Anaheim will give Orange a hard fight at Anaheim. Martin, quarterback for Coach George Hobbs' outfit at Anaheim, carries a triple threat. He can kick, pass and is slippery in a broken field.
Eley, a guard, Wallace and Clapp, tackles, Sloop, end, Wallin, fullback, and Jensen halfback are also good men.Coach Stewart White at Orange has a green team weighing in at about 150 pounds. An experienced back field is going to boost the prospects for Orange.
Blackburn, a clever quarterback;
M. Weisner and Jeffries, half-backs and Edwards, fullback, are all last year lettermen.Tustin Inexperienced Tustin, with Clyde Cook, a new coach, directing its destiny, will play a hard playing but inexperienced team on the field against Fullerton. W. Crawford, center;
D. Crawford, tackle, and Rittner, guard, are the only Tustin lettermen. Some excellent new material and some good men from the "B" squad will help the team, however.
Edson and L. Coffman will start at end for Tustin this afternoon;
McInteer and D. Crawford, tackles;
Owens and Huntley, guards; W.FARRELL SAYS ST. LOUIS HAS YOUTH, AMBITION TO WIN FROM VETERAN FOESBy HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—After having guessed wrong on the channel swims, Bill Tilden, Bobby Jones, Jack Dempsey and Glenna Collett, the writer hesitates to place a jinx on one of the teams in the world's series that opens here tomorrow, by picking it to win."I hope all you Dempsey pickers in there fall in behind the Cardinals and we're sure to win," Miller Huggins, manager of the Yanks, shot at a group of newspapermen in a box at the stadium yesterday.Considering everything, however, technical, physical and moral qualifications, the St. Louis Cardinals are picked as a slight favorite to win over the American league champions in a series that may go the limit. It's almost a sure bet that it will not be over in four games.The Yanks have the advantage in the outfield; the Cardinals have the edge slightly in the infield, the Cards have a big margin behind the bat and they have more good pitchers than the Yankees. But there is no way to tell that Walter Hoyt and Sam Jones, who have not been going so well, will not return to form.Cardinals Ambitious The Yankees have more experience but they haven't the spark of youth and the fire of ambition that brought the Cardinals through a terrific fight to win the first pennant that St. Louis ever has seen.Tragedy, as it descended on the St. Louis club, with the death of the mother of Rogers Hornsby, may prove an additional inspiration instead of a spirit breaking blow.The club will be playing for "Rag" and will play its head off because the boys know what a terrific sacrifice their young manager made to stay with them and help them in their greatest battle.The case is mindful of the tragedy that hit the Cleveland Indians in 1920 when, in the heart of a torrid pennant race, Ray Chapman, a star shortstop, was killed by a pitched ball. It was a blow that would have killed a less stouthearted club, especially when Tris Speaker had to grab Joe Sewell, an untied youngerster, from a college diamond, and trust him with the most vital position on the club.Rallied to Sewell
The team rallied to Sewell and to Speaker and they won the pennant and the world's championship and young Sewell was one of the real heroes of the series.There is another angle also.
A very smart baseball man, traveling with the Yankees, said that the Dempsey-Tunney fight saved the pennant for the Yankees. The club was in a horrible slump and a commanding lead melted away almost to nothing. The players were fretting and pressing and couldn't get out of it. The day before the fight they started talking and arguing fight and got their minds off baseball. The day of the fight and the day after, they talked nothing but fight in the hotel and with the strain relieved they started to play baseball.The grief of Hornsby has taken much of the strain off the St. Louis club. They haven't been thinking or worrying about baseball and they may be in much better moral condition than the Yanks when they go on the field.It may be an injustice to hang a curse on the Cardinals by picking them to win in a season that has marked the fall of one great favorite after another.Anyway, the championship will remain in America.Whippets are a cross between the Italian greyhound, the greyhound and the bull terrier, but have existed in their present form for

Duck Season Opens
October 16Many have the impression that the duck sea-

Federal Migratory Bird Act takes precedent birds, the open season on which starts October

Gone Are the Days

—when the modern housewife steps into a market and asks for "lard." The discriminating buyer specifies a brand, for experience has taught that lard differs in quality... the same as beans or any other staple food article.

Cudahy's Puritan Leaf Lard is in a class by itself and appeals to all who appreciate quality. It costs more than ordinary lard, but it goes farther and produces better results. So in the end it is the cheapest.

Dempsey Poisoned, Claim

JACK REFUSES TO ALIBI FOR LOSS TO GENE

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The first serious attempt to explain Jack Dempsey's poor showing in the fight in which he lost his world heavyweight title to Gene Tunney has been made by the physician attending the ex-champion in his hotel here.

Dempsey remained "in quarters" today but Dr. Frank Russell, attending him, said he is not seriously ill and will be around in about a week. He has not been confined to bed.

Dr. Russell said Dempsey is suffering from an infection under the left arm pit, akin to boils, which he contracted during training.

"I believe when he entered the ring he was a man intoxicated by the poisonous matter which affected his blood," Dr. Russell said. "I have no hesitancy in advancing the theory that this infection had an adverse effect on Dempsey's boxing and a depressing influence on him generally."

Dempsey's only comment was to repeat what he said after the fight.

"I lost to a better man; I have no alibi."

Gene Normile, Dempsey's business representative, is attempting to suppress all information concerning the boxer's illness, but admitted Jack had been under the care of a physician.

"We don't care to say what the trouble is," said Normile. "We don't want to appear to be creating an alibi."

Billy Evans Says

may be necessary to send you to one of our farms for a year or two."

It was the intention of Huggins to farm him to one of the minor league clubs with which St. Louis at the time had a working agreement.

Got Job on Farm

Hornsbey made no reply, but he took what Huggins said literally. He decided he wouldn't wait for the St. Louis club to send him to any farm. He went back to Texas and got a job on one himself.

Hornsbey was just 19 years of age and growing fast. A winter on a ranch with its attendant hard work was just the thing he needed to round him out physically.

When he reported to the Cardinals the following spring, Huggins hardly knew him. He had put on about 20 pounds and looked the part of the big leaguer. He proceeded to prove it at once. His work in spring training was so impressive that Huggins immediately gave up any thought of farming him out. During the season of 1916 he played 139 games for the Cardinals at shortstop, second base and third base.

Playing alongside of Huggins he picked up many of the fine points of second-base play at which Huggins was a past master.

However, as late as 1921 he played four positions for the Cardinals, three infield positions also in the outfield. At one time he took a whirl at first base.

Came Into His Own

In 1922 Hornsbey came into his own as a second-sacker and since that time has been the outstanding player of the National league at that position, as well as at the bat.

Hornsbey's career should be one of inspiration to every player ambitious to shine in the major leagues. His road to success was far from any easy one.

While it isn't generally known, Hornsbey was twice handed his release from minor league ball clubs. These early reversals, enough to discourage the ordinary youngster, simply made him fight back all the harder.

In the spring of 1914, Hornsbey reported to the Dallas club of the Texas league for a trial. In the large crop of rookies trying to club, Hornsbey was entirely overlooked by the manager of the Dallas. He drew his release, April 23.

Willful, yes, anxious, to accept a chance in a league of lower classification, Hornsbey signed with Hugo of the Texas-Oklahoma league. On July 2, of that year, Hugo passed him on to Dennison of the same organization. The following year while with Dennison, his work attracted the attention of one of the scouts of the St. Louis Cardinals and he was purchased for the sum of $500.

Just think of it, Rogers Hornsbey cost only $500. In these days, players of far less ability bring 20 times that amount and then do not always deliver. There could be no stranger coincidence than the plucking of the world series by New York and St. Louis with Huggins and Hornsbey in the managerial roles.

It will truly be a case of the pupil pitting his stuff against the old master.

MEN HAVE CHARGE OF STAR MEETING

Monday night's meeting of Santa Ana chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was entirely in the charge of the husbands of the officers. They provided the entertainment and refreshments.

At the business meeting, five candidates were initiated. They were Mrs. Marie Mae Roehm, Mrs. Flora Belle May, Carl McKinley May, Mrs. Mary Andrien and Mrs. Mildred Sutton.

The rooms had been decorated with quantities of zinnias and dahlias by Mrs. Amelia Prather and Mrs. H. Roberts.

The men who played the parts of hosts were George Prather, chairman; Roy Parker, Harry Roberts, Jack Wiley, Rowland Kloess, Frank Hoffman, William Sylvester, William Dean and Elmer Thompson.

LIFEGUARD TO AGAIN ATTEMPT CATALINA SWIM

Another attempt to swim the channel between Catalina Island and Balboa will be made by Robert Foster, Ocean Park lifeguard, on October 8, it was announced today.

Foster and another long distance swimmer, Nicholas Samoff, of Newport Beach recently made an unsuccessful attempt to swim the channel.

That the attempt on October 8, will be started from the Catalina shore at Lone Point lighthouse, in order to be assisted by the currents and other natural aids, was the assertion of Foster today. It is said that the cold water is near the island, and that by swimming from cold water into the warmer current off the main shore, the swimmer will not suffer so much.

The previous attempt was terminated by the sudden appearance of five submarines in front of the swimmers. The under sea boats were mistaken for whales, it was said.

TOD MORGAN BEATS GLICK, HOLDS TITLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Tod Morgan of Seattle kept his crown today, having narrowly escaped the recurring disasters that have overtaken every fighting champion from heavyweight to lightweight this year.

Defending his junior lightweight championship before a hostile crowd of 10,000 fans in Madison Square Garden last night, Morgan scored a victory over Joe Glick of Williamsburg by a shad of more aggressiveness and by virtue of a knockdown.

Three special matches will feature tonight's card at the Bowler's Inn, 509-511 West Fourth street. Rankin's ladies will meet the "Pasadena Bloomer Girls," W. G. McConnell acting as master of ceremonies. The Chambliss Six squad will go against the Laguna Chocolates quintette. Pat's Certified Car market will meet the Terman Typewriter company.

Proprietors Gaspar and Andersen announced today that the grand official opening of both the bowling plant and Chick's fountain will be held Tuesday night. A large number of special prizes for both men and women bowlers will be offered.

The Perfect Shortening

Makes Perfect Baking and Cooking

Cudahy's Puritan Lard is 100% pure lard, rendered in open kettles and slowly chilled in the package.

This gives Puritan its superior quality and that necessary grainy texture which insures perfect mixing with all baking ingredients. As it contains no moisture less is required.

Puritan makes light, fluffy fine grained cakes and pies with rich, tender, flaky crust that melts in the mouth.

For deep frying Puritan again excels. The golden brown seal which it naturally forms around the food keeps in the natural flavor. Greasy foods are unknown to the users of Puritan.

Puritan Lard does not smoke at cooking temperature. It does not absorb food flavors and may therefore be used again and again.

Use Puritan for best results. "The Test Tells."

COUNTY TRACK MEET IS HELD BY NEIGHBORS

The occasion was the county track meet and it was announced that the Rex team, of the Santa Ana lodge, had won. As a result, at the next meeting of the local Royal Neighbors, the Cyclone team will provide the refreshments.

Mrs. Bessie Secher was obligated at the business meeting, after which a program was given, each lodge present putting on a stunt. The Orange lodge presented a soloist, who sang several numbers. Both Santa Ana and Fullerton organizations featured, their stunts with readings. The event of the evening, however, was the play, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," put on by the Bellflower neighbors, which was a take-off on the original.

Later in the evening, a dance was held, music for which was provided by an orchestra in charge of Mrs. Chester Scott, who also was in charge of the refreshment committee. Mrs. Gene Tibbets was in charge of the decorating committee, which had used ivy and fern to advantage in the decoration of the hall.

Tantlinger gave a resume of activities at the national convention, held recently at Des Moines, Ia.

The committee in charge of last night's meeting included Mrs. Myrtle Waffle, chairman; Mrs. C. O. Showalter, Mrs. Lillian Hubbard, Mrs. Elizabeth Erickson. The committee was assisted by the husbands of its members in serving the dinner.

Thirty members of the camp and auxiliary signified their intention to visit Lieutenant Bedwell camp, Riverside, tonight. DE MOLAY BOYS PLAN AFFAIRS DURING MONTH

Extensive plans have been made for the DeMolay meetings during the remainder of the year, according to Virgil Reed, master counselor of the Santa Ana chapter. A special meeting of the chapter was held last Saturday night, in the Masonic temple. A program of activities was outlined.

Two social affairs are scheduled this month. The chapter members discussed holding a stag party at the special meeting the last of October. It was suggested that a banquet be held in the city "Y" building and an entertainment be provided. The second event in October is the masquerade dance of the Anaheim Job's Daughters, Friday, October 29, to which the Santa Ana DeMolay boys have been invited.

Degrees are to be given a class of candidates in a few weeks, Reed stated. The new third degree, recently added to the ceremonies, will be ready for presentation at that time, it is believed.

An appeal was made today by Cecil Edwards, scribe, that all the old ritual books, now in possession of DeMolay members, be turned in to him within the next few days, so that the order for new rituals may be placed with the Grand Council.

A new advisory council has been named from the officers of the Royal Arch Masons, lodge No. 73, sponsoring body of the Santa Ana DeMolay chapter. Walter Kaufman, high priest, is the new "dad." Vern Watson, retiring "dad," was made an honorary member of the council. The new council is composed of Walter Kaufman, Asa Hoffman, Dr. James Farrage, L. C. Rohman, Joe Daniger, E. A. Toles, R. T. Wharton, W. W. Clevenger, Robert White and Vern Whitson.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS ENDORSE PLAN TO BOOST CONSUMPTION OF MADE-AT-HOME PRODUCTS

The board of directors of the Greater Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce today had given full approval to the program of advertising at-home-made products. The committee handling the affair is composed of C. E. Camm, B. V. Curry and H. M. Kinslow.

Pointing out that the purpose of the campaign is to make made-at-home products Santa Ana and Orange county household terms, the report of the committee to the board of directors says that the campaign is justified because it seeks to promote industrial solidarity and preparedness. At the same time, the committee directs attention to the proven fact that the chamber of commerce that is going forward—making progress—is the chamber that is advertising itself as a community servant.

Of Vital Importance
"This proposed campaign within the circle is of vital importance because upon its success depends the ability to draw to our community, from without the circle, those assets which go into making increased community motive power and a militant civic enthusiasm," reads the report. "This method of selling the community to itself promotes not only new retail business, but wholesale and manufacturing business as well, all of which is needed to further stabilize our community prosperity, increase the possibilities for new taxable properties and provide additional payrolls and much needed business."

Tying in with the campaign is an essay contest for high school pupils on the subject, "Why buy made-at-home products?" Cash prizes of $40, $30, $20 and $10, respectively, for first, second, third and fourth places are offered. To make it easy for Santa Anans to acquaint themselves with products manufactured in Santa Ana, a classified directory will be printed, naming, alphabetically, the manufacturing firms entering the advertising campaign and the products they make.

During the week of Jan. 9, 1927, displays will be placed in the show windows of approximately 75 business houses, merchants having promised to give the display space for the exhibition of home-made products. Machinery will be shown in clothing stores, canned goods in millinery stores and auto accessories in drug stores, the committee revealed in disclosing a portion of its plans for the window displays.

Prizes duplicating those for the essay contest will be offered for the most unique and attractive displays.

Concluding its report, the committee says:

New Standards Necessary
"If Santa Ana hopes and plans to advance and become, as expressed in the words of John Nolon, 'a beautiful, well-ordered, free and organic city,' new community advertising standards are necessary. We, of the chamber of commerce, must apply new methods to new occasions. We must grasp new opportunities and discard deprecated customs. If Santa Ana would hold its own in this day of real and genuine competition among communities, a competition that is as free and uncontrolled as has been the competition among individual business interests of our country, the chamber of commerce must do internal and external advertising."

"Like the individual, Santa Ana can dissipate its inherited or acquired endowment. Like the family unit of society, the second generation of Santa Ana can fail to preserve the good name of those from whom that inheritance was received. This situation can easily be brought about by the chamber of commerce neglecting real opportunities, by failing to create, by lacking the initiative to promote, by refusing even to grasp the privileges which are, virtually thrust upon it."

"The proposed payroll advertising campaign will, in the opinion of the committee afford an opportunity to create ideals, promote new markets, enlarge Santa Ana's trade area and add general prosperity to our merchant group."

CULTIVATION OF GUAYULE WILL BE TRIED HERE

Guayule, a new crop of Orange county—rubber refining, a new industry for Southern California!

If improvements now being carried on throughout California prove that the plant can be successfully cultivated, this state has potential resources for producing one-tenth of the world's rubber supply, according to an estimate by Prof. P. B. Kennedy, of the state college of agriculture, and Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg.

The experiments already have proved successful in San Diego county, it was said, and tests along the same line are soon to be made in Orange county. Guayule rubber is in every way the equal of para rubber, experts claim.

In telling the story of the experimentation, Professor Kennedy said: "Rubber has been produced for many years in Mexico from Guayule plant. It grows on desert foothill land of Mexico and in general appearance resembles the sagebrush of Utah and Nevada. The entire plant is cropped, both roots and tops being put through the extraction mill."

30 Years to Mature
"Guayule, in its native habitat, probably takes about 30 years to produce a shrub large enough to be harvested profitably. On this account and because of conditions regarding permanent security of land, certain rubber companies were discouraged from introducing the plant into cultivation. But about 10 years ago, the Continental Rubber company, known in California as the Rubber Exportation company, decided to see what could be done with the Guayule shrub under cultivation in the United States."

"The first experiments were made at Continental, near Tucson, Ariz. They were not very successful. The company then tried a spot 40 miles east of San Diego, at Valley Ford, in California. Here the rainfall, soil and climate proved to be satisfactory and the shrub grew well and produced a good rubber content, well within the requirements for commercial production. But large acres of suitable land did not seem to be available at a price the company could afford to pay, so it was decided to experiment over likely areas in the United States as a whole. Under the direction of Dr. McCallum test plots were planted to Guayule in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys and on the coast, particularly at Salinas. These have been remarkably successful and are so gratifying to the company that it is now ready to expand and place the industry on a commercial basis."

Difficult to Transport
"It is expected that units of about 7000 acres each will be established, with an extraction mill for each unit, as the shrub is too bulky to be transported to distant points profitably. At present, areas of about 20 acres will be planted out under the supervision of Dr. McCallum in districts where there are large tracts that may be available later for the establishment of a unit. If the local 20-acre experiment proves that the soil, rainfall and climate are suitable to the production of the shrub with a satisfactory rubber content, contracts will be given for the growing of the shrub along similar lines to that of the sugar beet industry."

"Dr. McCallum stated that, contrary to general opinion, Guayule rubber is equal in quality to the best Para rubber for every purpose. This is said to be based on experiments conducted by the bureau of standards in Washington, D. C. Perhaps the most interesting feature of the investigation is that a shrub accustomed for thousands of years to desert conditions and light rainfall seems to grow better when brought into congenial surroundings, apparently even enjoying the fogs of the Pacific."

"How much California may be able to contribute in the future to the world's supply of rubber cannot be stated at this time, but an estimate would be one-tenth of the total. To produce 10 per cent of the world's consumption would require 320,000 of Guayule under cultivation in California, based on a four-year cycle producing 1500 pounds of rubber per acre when the plants were four years old."

COOLIDGE'S EYE FIXED ON 1928. SAY OBSERVERS

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Washington political leaders generally are convinced, despite official silence from the White House, that President Coolidge has set his eye on 1928.

Senators, congressmen and party leaders are practically unanimous in the private opinion that Mr. Coolidge is carefully refraining from prejudicing his chances for another term.

These men have sometimes misinterpreted the actions of the executive—and they may be wrong again—but their firm conviction now is that Mr. Coolidge seeks to be Republican presidential candidate in 1928.

How Impression Is Gained This impression they have gleaned not alone from Mr. Coolidge's activities and from their talks with him, but also from the conversation and activities of his closest friends. These leaders say Mr. Coolidge will not take full personal responsibility for the outcome of the November elections.

First, Mr. Coolidge gave Republican leaders to understand, they say, that he would take no part in the campaign. Within the last few days, statements have been issued by Republican campaign managers, indicating that, while they desire to have voters stand by the administration in the coming election, they do not desire to make Mr. Coolidge bear the responsibility for any consequences of the outcome.

The latest word on the subject which has set Washington buzzing comes from Chairman Butler, of the Republican National committee, and close friend of the president, who expressed his view after two visits at the White House.

Coolidge and Prosperity "I do not know what part the president will take in the campaign," he said. "I believe the issue is support of the administration. I like to think about continuance of prosperity and I think everyone else does."

The statement was in answer to a question:

"Is the issue Mr. Coolidge?" As for the president, he has ignored numerous questions concerning another term asked him by newspapermen in press conferences. Republican leaders, returning to Washington, bring reports that recent developments have added to Mr. Coolidge's personal popularity among the people.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Stephen Decatur

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

Shortly after the burning of the Philadelphia, Commodore Preble decided the time was ripe for an attack on the defenses of Tripoli. Decatur had been given a captaincy for his bravery and commanded a division of the American gunboats. The Americans were greatly outnumbered but fought valiantly.

Success was in sight when Decatur learned that his brother, James, on another boat, had been killed by a treacherous Tripolitan.

The Tripolitan commander had signaled surrender and when James was boarding his ship had shot him full in the face.

Decatur set out after the fleeing Corsair, determined on revenge. He smashed his boat into the Tripolitan commander's, boarded and locked in mortal combat with the giant who had slain his brother. With his cutlass he tried to cut off the head of the man's lance, but the sword was broken by the blow. (Continued.)

BEAUTY CHATS

YOUR ELBOWS

If you want nice looking elbows you must take care of them every day. I would suggest that they be given a good scrubbing once a day with soap and your hand scrubbing brush, and at bed time that you rub them with a very good quality vanishing cream, using the cream generously and rubbing it thoroughly into the skin. This is all the ordinary daily care most elbows need, though like your face and neck they should be powdered when you wear an evening dress and have them on view.

If your elbows are very thin and the skin is dry and rather gray looking, rub them with a little cleansing cream before you wash them. This feeds oil into the skin. The oil will all be washed out when you scrub the elbows but the skin will be soft, much softer than after an ordinary soap and water scrubbing. This is really to prevent dryness.

But there is an even more effective treatment. Scrub them and rinse them with not water, dry them quickly, and immediately rub into them a generous amount of oil. Leave the rest on the surface for as long a period as you conveniently can. You can't use this as a bedtime treatment, of course, because the cream would work out on the bed clothes.

You can, however, put on an old short sleeved dress and do any amount of housework without any inconvenience from your greased elbows, or if you want to go to a certain amount of trouble you can even make yourself elbow caps out of oiled silk. These are shaped wide at the back of the elbow and narrow at the inside of the elbow, in fact, they are like little bags that tie over the elbows, and their shape holds them on to the arm. If you could keep the skin here covered with a good flesh building cream for an hour a day it would make an immense difference in their appearance.

Miss Anna G.—The egg astringent is only to be used for special times after a general cleansing of the skin. If you use it once a week it will be enough as it is very powerful. The proportions

Have You Tried This Treatment? are one part white of egg to six parts water, and the small amount of egg that adheres to the shell after you drop out the whole egg, will be enough when the water is added for a full treatment covering the face and throat completely. Tomorrow—Face Cream

ADVICE FROM AN OLD-TIMER

By Olive Roberts Barton

Polonius said to his son, "Costly thy finest as they purse can buy, rich but not gaudy." Polonius, I gather, did not mean that his son was to spend all the money in his purse on clothes. His advice has been misinterpreted more or less since his words were first uttered in Garrick theater. He meant for Laertes to buy the best clothes that he could afford. A gentleman should look well.

It is a most difficult age—this age of fast changing fashion. I doubt if Polonius would give the same advice today, albeit men can wear the same suit or the same overcoat for two seasons without being conspicuous. But a woman cannot keep in fashion unless she goes over her wardrobe every month. There used to be two seasons—spring and fall. She could count to a penny almost what it would cost her to keep her presentable and even fashionable. She knew what a lady should have.

Now there are at least six main seasons a year, with a few sprinkled in between. Spring clothes come in two sets, the ones that appear about Christmas, the others to be had at the Easter season. In January the stores bloom with all the colors of a modern rainbow. The old-fashioned rainbow of seven prismatic colors would not know its own child of fifty-seven varieties. The public does not know as a general thing that these clothes are for the people who are wintering in warm climates. Like children wanting pretty toys, they see and buy and wear unsuitable things in unsuitable weather.

About Easter, when travelers return to their native heaths, the dark regular spring things are shown. The general public jumps back to the dark things again as one man. But new dark things they must be—new shades, new cuts and new fabrics.

Four more weeks and it is summer. They buy stripes or flowers, dots or mottles, only to be told before they've been once to the cleaners that plain white sport things are the vogue. In August, back to more new shades and styles and clothes. And now it is fall!

THE FLOWER

I wonder, little flower, if you really know your power. Know the mighty force which weaves Root and tendril, stalk and leaves?

As those petals pink unfold, Have you guessed the strength they hold?

Little blossom, do you know Why upon the earth you grow? Are you conscious of the fact That you live and breathe and act?

Should you wither now and die, Would your lovely neighbors sigh?

Little blossom, touched with grace You are far from common-place.

You've a mission to fulfill, Needing constant strength of will. Oft I wonder, watching you, If at times you're tempted, too.

Do you weary of the sun And the growing to be done? Do you sometimes think it vain That you brave the wind and rain?

Do you think that life's severe Wanting so much beauty here?

Little blossom, have you guessed How you comfort the distressed? How you lighten with your grace Many a bleak and barren place?

Are you conscious, as you grow That this old world needs you so?

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, The American Nature Association

Wild-cat, he used chiefly to be called, but now bob-cat seems to be the accepted name, because his tail is shorter than that of our domesticated cat. His real nature, however, is exactly similar to that of his relative of the town.

In other words, our own town has not changed one iota since those days, now so distant that we do not know either the time nor the place of his enslavement. If such a word can be used to describe the domestication of an animal so little tamed that after all these ages he still takes all, and gives nothing.

Now our bob-cat is by no means the savage and untamable beast that he is usually pictured. Nature, it is true, has decreed that he live by taking toll of such creatures of the forest as are weaker than himself, and in their pursuit he is no more relentless than the robin who searches the lawn for earthworms, or the king-bird who sits all day on the orchard bough snapping up each insect as it comes along.

True, man has invaded the haunts of the original inhabitants of the forest, and has brought with him his flocks and herds. Is it any wonder if the poor bob-cat, finding the creatures on which he used to live growing scarcer, should sometimes take for his supper some of the new game that comes his way.

And when the concealed trap grips his foot, and after days of suffering the trapper comes to kill him, why should he not fight for the life that is being taken from him.

But man is at the head of creation, someone says, and his institutions must not be interfered with. Well, so it seems, but there are those who seem to perceive already the beginning of the end of the age of mammals, of which man claims to be chief, and the beginning of the era of insects.

If this be true, should not man be gone it will be too late.

BEAUTY and refinement in the new Studebaker Custom cars has subtracted nothing from their efficiency nor added anything to their cost.

For beneath the outward beauty of these custom creations, is the same traditional stamina which has enabled Studebaker to establish some of the world's most notable records for endurance.

This speed and durability recently enabled a Studebaker Big Six to cut 16 hours and 25 minutes off the best previous transcontinental automobile record, under the most adverse weather conditions — made Studebaker the victor in the 1925 Russian endurance trials — broke the Trans-Australian record in 1924!

The brilliant performance of Studebaker cars is due to the quiet Studebaker L-head motors. Marked freedom from vibration comes through complete machining and dynamic balancing of the big Studebaker crankshaft. Long life and endurance come through costly alloy steels, better materials of every kind and the finest workmanship.

For quality that starts with the lustrous finish and goes clear through to the chassis, the new Studebaker Custom Sedans have no equal. See them and ride in them. Then you will know.

MERCHANTS OF LAGUNA FORM ORGANIZATION

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 1.—Organized just two weeks ago, the new civic organization in Laguna Beach, designated as the Laguna Beach Merchants' association, has made a most auspicious beginning, the present membership being approximately 40, and with new members coming in daily. At the initial meeting officers were elected, as follows:

Edward M. DeAhna, president; Fred Aufdenkamp, vice president; Walter F. Stromerson, secretary. Meetings are held every Friday afternoon in the Cabrillo building on the coast boulevard. The present membership includes all of the leading business men of Laguna Beach, and by the time that the organization is in good working order, it is anticipated that every person in business here will be enrolled in the association.

The association is the culmination of a need long felt by the business men of Laguna Beach for an organization that would deal with their particular problems. The association will work for the civic improvement and general welfare of the community, giving its moral and financial support to every meritorious project that tends to the upbuilding of Laguna Beach.

Bolsa Chica Gun Club's Fish Ill From Oil Seepage

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 1.—Officials and workers at the Bolsa Chica gun club are today endeavoring to find what is after the fish in the large bay the club owns.

Yesterday, hundreds of fish, mostly mullet, crowded to the locks which let the tide waters in and out of the bay. The fish evidently came from all parts of the bay, driven there by something in the water. All of the fish were sluggish and many were dying. The mullet is usually in ill off and is a hard fish to catch.

It is believed that seepage from oil wells near the bay and chemicals from sulphur springs have made the water uninhabitable for the fish. Club officials yesterday expressed themselves as being prepared to find the trouble and remedy it at once.

NEWS FROM ORANGE AND SURROUNDING DISTRICT

PART PLAYED BY MASONS IN AMERICA TOLD

ORANGE, Oct. 1.—The part Masons played in the development of America from the time the first colonists landed down through the days of the Revolutionary war, formed the subject of an address made to the local Masons and members of the Order of Eastern Star last night in the Masonic temple by the Rev. Bruce Brown, Los Angeles clergyman.

The men who dumped the tea overboard at Boston, the commanding officers in General Washington's army and the composer of the Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson, were all Masons, the Rev. Mr. Brown declared.

According to the Rev. Mr. Brown, Masons have investigated and carried through the majority of improvement projects in the United States since the country was formed.

Musical entertainment preceding the lecture was provided by Miss Martha Huscroft, juvenile harpist, and Miss Josephine Durgin, vocal soloist.

A pot-luck dinner was served to over 100 persons previous to the meeting.

An announcement that the O. E. S. card party would be held next Thursday in the Masonic temple was made by Mrs. Dorothy Ross, matron.

WORTHY OF CONSIDERATION

In case we have any "Doubting Thomases" in Orange county who cannot bring themselves to believe that a harbor here would be a great help to the citrus fruit growing industry, let us briefly consider what happened over at Fillmore (Ventura county) the other day.

The Southern Pacific railway runs right through the valley, affording practically direct communication with San Pedro, which is in the neighborhood of 70 miles away.

In one day, recently, on August 7th, to be exact, the Fillmore Citrus Fruit Association shipped 5310 boxes of oranges and lemons.

Of this total, 3556 boxes were taken by truck to San Pedro and loaded on the President Adams for exportation to China, Japan and South Sea Islands.

Now, there was certainly no sentiment in the action of the Fillmore association in shipping this fruit by truck a long distance in order to ship by sea. It was done, no doubt, because it paid to ship in that manner.

The incident is one well worth consideration by our Orange county citrus fruit growers. It would seem self-evident that if Fillmore citrus fruit growers find that they can secure new and better markets for their fruit by shipping by water, even when so doing entails trucking the fruit some seventy miles in order to reach a shipping point, Orange county growers, who would have to haul their fruit but little more than a tithe of the distance, would find a harbor so near at hand a great help to their business.

THE GOOD HOUSES STOOD

Says Mr. S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line Railway:

"While the loss of life entailed in Florida is most unfortunate and regrettable, our information is that buildings erected under modern methods of architectural design and construction have withstood the tempest in admirable shape, the damage being local, such as plate glass and that class of damage.

"Temporary buildings of flimsy construction were seriously damaged, together with hundreds of automobile camps composed of crib and canvas construction and the innumerable little booths that line the various roads in Florida."

This proves to be the case in every wind disaster of late. When a tornado struck Lorain, O., two or three years ago, all the old rookeries which made that city hideous were reduced to heaps of bricks and splinters. The good new buildings remained good and new. In the long run, the city was immensely benefitted by the swift disappearance of the unsafe and ugly stuff.

Florida was full of flimsy buildings, as so many places are where winter is unknown. It is these which have been blown into toothpicks. If the builders of the present will learn a lesson from the mistakes of the past, the new Florida may greet the arrival of future hurricanes—not with smiles, because a hurricane is never a smiling matter, but with a serene confidence in the soundness of its structures.

WATER AS PUBLIC PROPERTY

New York State joins Michigan and other states of the Great Lakes group which are invoking the federal courts to stop Chicago's diversion of water from Lake Michigan for her drainage canal. The suit is brought in Michigan's name against the Chicago sanitary district.

The contention is that the water of the Great Lakes is public property, belonging in common to all the states and provinces bordering on them, and that Chicago, by diverting 10,000 cubic feet of water a second and turning it artificially into the Mississippi basin, is seriously lowering the lake levels and doing great damage to navigation and real estate. The legal representative of New York State estimates that levels have thus unnaturally been lowered nine to ten inches on the St. Lawrence river and Lake Ontario, and that the loss to shipping alone amounts to $500,000 a year for every inch. States on the upper lakes have charged still more damage.

Thus Chicago is being subjected to more and more pressure of criticism, from the big group of states and Canadian provinces directly affected, and also from states not touching on the lakes but interested in inland navigation for the cheap transportation of their products. The question gains interest right along, because it involves a principle which applies to every section of the country. The American people are attaching more importance to inland navigation and the conservation of water in all the great natural drainage basins.

Time may be money, but money isn't time, as many a man discovers after spending all the good years of his life piling up wealth.

BRIAND AND STRESEMANN

Briand and Stresemann lunched together the other day, and after a four-hour discussion they are said to have come into complete accord.

This is a pretty good way to solve international problems compared with the methods being pursued this time ten years ago.

There doesn't seem any real reason, either, why nations shouldn't keep on settling their vexed problems by quiet conferences over simple meals.

Some people find fault with Miami newspapers for trying to keep people from getting excited over the storm warnings. Some people find fault with the weather officials because they didn't storm warn enough. The fact is that human nature never pays sufficient attention to any kind of warnings.

EXPERT TESTIMONY

That parents are slackers was the affirmation received over and over by a writer of Good House-keeping who sent out a questionnaire to criminal court judges, educators and other people in touch with the problems of youth today. Their views are summed up in the conclusion of one man who in mentioning dance halls, road houses, vulgar magazines and vulgar movies, says that anyone even superficially familiar with these things "will probably agree that a social order willing to tolerate such agencies is likely to develop exactly the sort of younger generation it deserves. I believe that the general moral standard of our young folks is decidedly better than their elders who control the social situation have any right to expect."

All these strictures, however, are from the outside. From one school comes the voice of youth itself. The principal put the matter up to his senior class.

The seniors urged that every boy's father make a chum of him, restrict the boy's spending money and himself have the standards he wanted the boy to live up to. Mothers, they said, should be more careful about their own example and about their girls. One boy summed it up:

"If you have any doubt about conditions in the future, I can tell you that when we are fathers things will be better. We'll be about one thousand times stricter than our parents have been."

There, at last, is expert testimony.

The surest thing about democracy is its vitality. It goes down, but never stays down. One of these times Europe will have a democratic renaissance that will bowl all her dictators over like a row of tenpins.

Selfishness Along Highways

Scarcely is a new highway opened to traffic these days before the roadside nuisances begin to spring up. Hardly a single mile of the average busy thoroughfare is free of them. They range from a litter of billboards and posters to a wide variety of cheap shacks or commercial structures—all put in place by persons or firms whose aim it is selfishly to capitalize on a public improvement and the traffic it draws.

National organizations concerned with the appearance and proper use of streets and highways are moving against the nuisances. A few weeks ago the American Automobile Association called upon the hundreds of bodies affiliated with it throughout the country to co-operate in a campaign for removal of billboards and signs that detract from the natural beauty of the roadside and at the same time constitute a menace to the safety of the traveling public. The National Association of Real Estate Boards previously had started a movement aimed at the elimination of this type of nuisance, especially on main thoroughfares leading into cities. The former association now announces through its president, Thomas P. Henry, that a Nation-wide campaign is to be directed against the ugly stands and lunch counters that infest the highways, detract from their appearance and thereby destroy much of the benefit of these improvements.

Protection of the heavy investment in roads now is becoming an evident necessity. It is demanded in more than one direction, not the least important of which is clearing the highways of ugliness and possible sources of danger.

Good Will Trips Beneficial

Good-will tours, under auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, are a good thing. They foster a wider understanding of community purposes, interests and motives. A good-will tour from this virile Los Angeles organization is traveling through Nevada, Utah and Idaho. Everywhere the members of the party are greeted hospitably. The gospel of mutuality of interests is preached all along the way. Los Angeles and Southern California are gaining many friends. Pledges of reciprocal commercial relations are made.

Recently the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce sent a good-will expedition into the San Joaquin valley. That was also an excellent thing to do. Californians of different sections do not know and understand each other as they should. This is the reason why there has been so much misunderstanding, so much jealousy and so much sectional consciousness. When the sections meet together, commingle in friendly fashion and learn each other's motives, interests and aspirations, it is found that there is a gratifying unity and oneness.

California is one state, moving, in all its sections, toward one common destiny. "While resources, industries, developments and natural conditions in different sections may differ, yet there is a community of interests among these sections, just as there is among the states of the Union.

Good-will tours help to broaden minds and clarify understandings and promote confidence and friendship. There should be more of these amity pilgrimages, and civic organizations all over the Southland well might co-operate with Los Angeles in these tours.

MAGIC OF PLASTIC SURGERY

During the World war the mutilating injuries suffered by many of the men were assuaged through the development of new features in surgical technique.

Whereas formerly it was considered sufficient merely to sew up a wound, to amputate a shattered limb or to save life regardless of appearance, surgeons then began to consider operations with a view to the most presentable appearance possible after repair.

The technique itself is difficult but the war yielded a few masters in the medical service of each of the warring nations.

In addition to making wounds more tightly by fine stitching, methods were evolved for filling in defects by transplanting tissues from points elsewhere in the body.

For instance, a wound under the eye was repaired by moving some of the loose tissue from the forehead or the cheek. This was left attached to its original blood supply until new vessels had come in, and then the original attachment or pedicle was removed.

In one instance tissue taken from the upper part of the chest filled in the side of the face. Here mutilations were made slightly and at least a tolerable existence given to men whose lives otherwise might have been an agony of sensitiveness.

In one case a man whose arm was lost at the shoulder had not even enough of a stump to attach an artificial limb.

By transplanting muscles and tendons from neighboring parts, surgeons were able to make a stump that served well for the attachment of an artificial limb with which the man was able to earn a livelihood.

The economic aspects of the situation are, of course, even more important than those relating wholly to the patient's appearance.

Man's Courage In Face of Disaster

Pasadena Star-News

The divinity in man is manifested best, perhaps, in the time of extreme disaster and distress. If man had not a God-given nature and courage born in the skies, he would give up in discouragement. When the hurricane comes, with its desolation, man has the temptation to flee in terror and never to rebuild the razed structures. But he puts the timorous temptation behind him. He bestirs himself. He shakes off his fears, as an incubus which he scorns. He sets forth, with elastic step and stout heart, and cheery mien, to begin the work of rehabilitation.

The earthquake may do its worst. But San Francisco, and Santa Barbara, and Tokyo come forth from their ruins, more resplendently than ever. Floods may devastate. But Johnstown, and Dayton, and Pueblo, and dozens of other cities, step forth in newness of life. Fire may rage in Chicago, in Boston, in Baltimore, in San Francisco. But the high courage of man surmounts these terrifying visitations and defies the elements to daunt or dismay him.

There are sparks of the divine flame of courage in the hearts of men. There is the never-give-up impulse that brings from men miracles in rehabilitation in the wake of disaster.

AUTUMN

There is a warning stillness in these days,
Like that sad look which comes into the eyes
Of one who with gentle, silent gaze
Foretells the news of some dear friend's demise.
Before his speech has uttered what we know.

So Autumn now, in her own mystic way,
Is telling that the summer days must go,
And dressed in regal colors, bright and gay,
She tries to hide from us her loss and grief
And mutely weeps beside her sister's bier—
The one whose joyous life seemed all to brief—
Whose gladness sang the praises of the year
And Autumn in her silence kneels in prayer
For summer's soul that now is passing there.

DREAMING

Sometime I'll gather my dreams together,
Dreams that are golden and dreams that are blue,
And all in the glory of bright rainbow weather.
I'll breathe a bright crown of their posies for you,
I'll twine in a bit of a flowered springtime meadow;
I'll weave at the glow of a bright summer day.
With threads of an autumn all nut-brown and golden
And gleams of a winter's snow garlanded way
Whatever the dream and whatever the season,
In flower time or snow time, in sunshine or dew,
With all of my fancy's bright chapel I'll crown you,
For all of my dreams, Heart's Beloved, are you.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

When Victoria Ann recommended "Beau Geste" to the dwellers in the Little Gray House, as a rattling good adventure story to read on wakeful nights, she was a typical Boy Scout doing her daily good turn.

For Percival Christopher Wren's stirring tale delighted the adventure-loving heart of Tall Son and carried his mother's thoughts back to days when a romance which involved fair maidens, Indian tribes, renegade white men and hidden treasure, summed up human enjoyment.

"Beau Geste" is that Indian story of American frontier days translated into terms of the Foreign Legion, serene Englishwomen, Sahara desert oases, marvelous sapphires, Arabs and Spahis. But it certainly can't be cited for its soporific qualities. If you are sleepless and want something that will soothe you and quiet your nerves, devote your energies to counting sheep as they jump the fence of your dreams, and allow Beau Geste to rest upon the bed-side table.

If you have gained the impression that we rather enjoyed the book, you are quite right. It was such a welcome change from the lurid pages of the present day fiction (that may be described like automobiles as "super-sex" models) that in comparison, it was like a cool dawn breeze blowing through a room where tube-roses had been massed all night.

SHORN AND SHRIVEN

O Patches of the Quilting clan,
As paid to maid, or man to man,
I humbly make confession!
Such scorn felt I for gold and lace
I never dreamed I could embrace Prevailing fads and fall from grace!
I'm guilty of transgression!

For years I trod the narrow road,
My head so burdened with its load

But now they say crowns are passe
And queens are throwing theirs away.
Democracy is holding sway.
So why be dilatory?

But anyway—the deed is done!
It may be sinful—but it's fun
If I should be forgiven.
False dignity is all that's robbed
When long-haired ladies get them bobbed.
And now my story I have sobbed—
I pray let me be shriven!

Mainstay of Pioneers

Youth's Companion

It is interesting to notice that the frightened men who have been pioneers in working for stricted game laws and a better enforcement of those already on the books are likely more and more to have the help of women's organizations. The New York City Federation of Women's clubs devoted the whole of a recent session to considering means of conserving such of our wild life as still remains.

One of the most fascinating chapters in the history of America has never been written, or rather has been so scattered among many writers that it cannot be read as a whole. It is that in which the wild game of the continent played in the westward push of the pioneers and the rapid settlement of the country.

For two hundred years at least wild game was the chief meat supply of our wide frontiers, and a considerable economic asset in the older settlements. It was so plentiful that explorers could set forth with no other burden than a rifle and the ammunition for it, and pioneers could go, as Boone went from the Yadkin in North Carolina, to the Ohio and be gone two years without fear of starvation or even of any suffering from lack of food. Moose, deer, elk, bears and wild turkeys roamed the eastern forests in almost incredible numbers; and west of the Alleghenies were the buffalo and the antelope. Besides the larger animals there were rabbits, raccoons, squirrels, opossums, many kinds of grouse and water fowl beyond estimate.

Nor was it only as food that the wild game of the country served the needs of the early settlers. Much of their clothing was made from the skins of deer and fur-bearing animals. Their beds were filled with the feathers of wild geese and covered with the robes of buffalo, bear or wolf.

Silence accompanied; for beast and bird,

Silence was pleased; now glowed the firmament
With living sapphires; Hesperus, that led
The starry host, rode brightest, till the moon, Rising in clouded majesty, at length Apparent, unveiled her peerless light,
And o'er the dark her silver mantle threw.

Today's Birthdays

Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, president of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, born at Greenville, N. Y., 62 years ago today.

To make the matter more concrete, let us reckon that for 20 years 50,000 settlers of a state got one-fourth of their living from the use or sale of the flesh, hides, fur and feathers of wild animals and birds. Figuring the cost of living at $200 a year for each person would give us the sum of $50,000,000 dollars as the harvest of rifle and trap. There are states in the Union that have yielded in game products upward of a million dollars a year for a hundred years or more.

It is evident, then, that we may justly reckon our wild game as having been one of our great natural resources. Such of it as is left is just as much an asset now—in fact more, for scarcity has enhanced its value; and as an asset and a possession of all the people, it is worth conserving.

For two hundred years at least wild game was the chief meat supply of our wide frontiers, and a considerable economic asset in the older settlements. It was so plentiful that explorers could set forth with no other burden than a rifle and the ammunition for it, and pioneers could go, as Boone went from the Yadkin in North Carolina, to the Ohio and be gone two years without fear of starvation or even of any suffering from lack of food.
